

Excellence.
NO EXCUSES!

52 Ways to Launch Your Journey.
NOW.

Tom Peters

25 February 2104

This plea for Excellence is a product of Twitter, where I hang out. A lot. Usually, my practice is a comment here and a comment there—driven by ire or whimsy or something I’ve read or observed. But a while back—and for a while—I adopted the habit of going off on a subject for a semi-extended period of time. Many rejoinders and amendments and (oft brilliant) extensions were added by colleagues from all over the globe.

So far, some 52 “tweetstreams” (or their equivalent from some related environments) have passed (my) muster—and are included herein.

There is a lot of bold type and a lot of RED ink and a lot of (red) exclamation marks (!) in what follows. First, because I believe this is important stuff. And second, because I am certain there are no excuses for not cherrypicking one or two items for your T.T.D.N. list. (Things To Do NOW.)

Excellence.

No Excuses.

Now.

Epigraph: The ACCELERATING Rate of Change

*“The greatest shortcoming of the human race is our inability to understand the exponential
function.”* —Albert A. Bartlett*

*from Erik Brynjolfsson and Andrew McAfee, The Second Machine Age, “Moore’s Law and the Second Half of the Chessboard”/“Change” is not the issue—change has always been with us. But “this time” may truly be different. The ACCELERATION of change is unprecedented—hence, the time for requisite action is severely compressed.

Excellence 52. NO EXCUSES.

1. Change. Focus/obsess on allies. And allies and allies. And MORE allies. Don't allow yourself to be distracted or sidetracked by foes.
2. Do good work. You'll spend most of your waking hours at work. Make the best of it—or you will have thrown away your life. (Strong words. Warranted.)
3. Start the day on a high/Close the week with a bang. Bring a SMILE to work. IMMEDIATELY get out and about (MBWA). Etc. Call it “the little BIG things starter kit.” First TEN MINUTES determine the flow of the day. Day's end: More MBWA. Offer thanks for a job well done—“little stuff” more than big stuff. Call three customers. Thank two people in other functions who lent a hand.
4. Time spent on relationships/network building. It's the ... ULTIMATE CAPITAL INVESTMENT.
5. Training. Training must go from “second best” to the very top of the heap. The training boss should sit next door to the CEO. Training courses should unflinchingly make you gasp at their quality.
6. People development. Priority #1 is no less than a ... MORAL OBLIGATION ... to let nothing get in the way of helping our people—each and every one—grow and prosper and achieve beyond their wildest dreams. (Hint: You'll make a lot of money along the way.)
7. The “BIG DUH.” Taking care of people—“even” in retail—PAYS!
8. Joy. Damn it. (Why not?)
9. WOW-ification. Ugly word. Magnificent aspiration. (Necessary, too, in a hyper-competitive world.)
10. First-line LEADERSHIP matters—a lot! The #1 variable determining enterprise productivity is the quality of the full cadre of 1st-line leaders. (Recruit 'em and train 'em accordingly.)
11. Get aboard the “S-train” or else. SM/Social Media. SX/Social eXecutive/SE/Social Employees. SO/Social Organization. (ALL HANDS.) SB/Social Business. Cacophonous engagement of one—AND ALL!—with every aspect of the enterprise, inside and out, is determining the difference between winners and losers.
12. The “sharing economy.” Sharing pays! Sharing (more) pays (more)!
13. The “hang out factor.” Little or nothing is more important than MANAGING your “Hang Out Portfolio”! We are indeed what we eat—and who we spend time with.
14. Calendar supremacy. You ARE how you spend your time. PERIOD.

15. Civility. Civility allows you to sleep at night. Civility is (also) a STUNNING competitive advantage.
16. Politics. IMPLEMENTATION is ... politics. (Get over it.) (Master it.)
17. “EXCELLENT” Meetings. Meetings are what bosses “do.” Meetings are de facto Leadership Opportunity #1. Act accordingly. (Few do.)
18. Email EXCELLENCE. Why not?
19. The Reaction is more important than the action. The problem is rarely the problem. The RESPONSE to the problem is invariably the problem.
20. Thank you! “Acknowledge” and “Appreciate” are perhaps the two most powerful words in the leader’s language.
21. ACKNOWLEDGEMENT Power. (Continued. Why? Said power is AWESOME.)
22. Listen up! Make 2014: The Year of the EAR.
23. TALK. LISTEN. WRITE. The UN-studied “big three.”
24. “Have you ...” The 50 “Have Yous.”
25. 2013-14/New Year’s Week. BEGINNINGS and ENDINGS matter. A LOT.
26. The delicacy of the helping process. We suck at giving criticism. (It matters. A LOT.)
27. EXCELLENCE. The 5-minute Rule.
28. EXCELLENCE. The 19 Es of Excellence/5 (or less) words to the wise.
29. Organizations exist to SERVE. PERIOD.
30. Putting People REALLY First. (REALLY.)
31. Limits to “strategy.” Winners focus on EXECUTION.
32. “Only one can be the cheapest.” DESIGN as D.I.C./Differentiator-In-Chief.
33. RADICAL Personal Development. It’s the only survival strategy amidst the economic/tech tsunami. Start ASAP.
34. 100% of us ... ENTREPRENEURS. We are ready! (It turns out.)
35. Benchmarking. Effective “benchmarking” is NOT about copying—it IS about learning and adapting to circumstances.
36. B-I-G? Over-rated!

37. Judgment. OUR JUDGMENT STINKS. PERIOD. (And there are tons of research to prove that VERY uncomfortable point.)
38. Culture comes FIRST. If (hyper-hardnosed) former IBM CEO Lou Gerstner says it, it must be so!
39. The THREE Rules. Taking the high road to success.
40. The “PI6.” Or: Personal Impact SIX. Short and (I hope) sweet.
41. BIGGEST Life Decision. Your call ... ONE DAY AT A TIME.
42. Read! Read! Read some more! One of the premier investment bankers in the world declares CEOs’ #1 problem to be a failure to read enough.
43. The Middle Class Is Toast. (Ye gads.) (And then an antidote!)
44. WOW. NOW.
45. 47 questions for newly anointed CEOs. Do you leave 50% of your time unscheduled? (And 46 others.)
46. The LAST word. (For now.)
47. The LAST word (Version TWO). People REALLY First—or else.
48. The LAST word (Version THREE). Do (NOW) or Die.
49. The LAST word (Version FOUR). Implementation: The “last 99%.”
50. The LAST word (Version FIVE). The only thing we have to fear is the absence of fear.
51. The LAST word (Version SIX). Nothing half way! Use your last ounce of energy!
52. Nobody knows anything. Hmmmmm

I. Change/Change Agents

The A-squared Approach: Allies & Action

Not sure what triggered it, but I went on a Twitter rampage this morning (Thursday, 11/21/13) on the topic of change. Herewith, FYI:

Change agency: Forget the word “enemies.” Focus on/obsess on ...

ALLIES.

Big change is not about fighting the bad guys. It’s about surrounding them with your continuously recruited allies.

Success at change: Building a stable of allies. Failure: Pissing and moaning and picking fights.

Change agent time distribution: 50% recruiting Allies. 40% tending Allies. 10% other. 0% fighting enemies.

Change: Allies do not automatically remain allies. Tend them and do NOT NOT NOT neglect them—the latter is a common sin.

Change the 4F Way: Find a Fellow Freak Faraway.

(Change agents need playmates and distant playpens.)

Change: Rack up and log ... “small wins” ... like a ... maniac.

Change you want: It’s already happening somewhere. Find it!

Change the Bob Stone way: “Some people look for things that went wrong and try to fix them. I look for things that went right, and try to build off them.”

Losses as critical as wins: Dotcom movement worked big time. Astonishing amount of experimentation in brief period. “LS” as/more important than “WS.”

Change is about end runs—not a smash-mouth plunge down the middle.

Allies: Recruit the quiet ones as much or more than the noisy ones.

If you can’t find allies, you’re probably perceived as too far out. Find the sweet spot: Exciting/edgy w/o scaring the shit outta people.

A rigid stance nearly always generates an equally rigid response.

Change: Making loud noises is usually a loser’s strategy.

If you are really passionate, you tend to confront. Confrontation NEVER results in victory; it just entrenches your opponents and increases their determination to stop you. You play into the bad guys’ hands: “I knew he was a jackass. Never put him on the agenda again.”

Wins.

Change: Recruit allies 2 or 3 levels “down” ... the magicians who reside where the real work is done and the place from which the system can be indirectly manipulated. I.e., “Suck down” for success/Make friends in “low” places.

Change: ALLIES. ALLIES. ALLIES. ALLIES.
ALLIES. ALLIES. (Then more ALLIES.)

Change agents: Commit no minor sins. Don’t let the bad guys find a narrow opening and bring you down for trivial reasons.

Change agents: Keep a civil tongue at all costs.

Winners: Recruit/nurture allies; try lotsa stuff; stay under the radar. Losers: Go toe to toe with the establishment; seek the spotlight.

Change agents: Speak not ill of thine enemies. Even to pals in private. All the walls have keen ears.

Change agents: No: Charts and graphs. Instead: Demos. Demos. Then more demos.

Change: Success is more about momentum and growing excitement around small wins than it is about big wins.

Change: Engage your allies in the design process—even if it introduces impurities. They must FEEL true ownership.

100% of change-that-works is NON-linear. (A wonderful saying: Winners are the ones who are “good at Plan B.” Or, I’d say, Plan Z.)

*Suck “down” for success.

Make friends in “low” places.

Sucking up is for suckers.

Change: Joyfully let/encourage your allies to take 100% credit for the small wins they're involved in.

Serious change includes bad days, bad weeks, bad months, perhaps bad years.

Change agents: Re-read all emails THREE times before sending.

Social Media is a marvel. But do NOT shortchange face-to-face with Allies.

Change agents: *Successful “small wins” with outsiders provide enormous street cred. (*And, increasingly, “Co-invention” is “EVERYTHING.”) Change agents: Preaching to the choir is just fine. More than fine: It produces a “multiplier effect”: If the members of the choir preach to their choirs, it becomes a ... MOVEMENT!

Greatest waste of time? Trying to “convert” non-believers. Instead, surround 'em. That is, you don't “convert.” “They” “discover”—come to appreciate what you're doing because a couple of their pals have joined up.

#1 role of allies?

*Recruit more allies!

*Hence allies' perceived “ownership” is all-important—allies have to “do it their way” to abet that sense of ownership. Give 'em space: No doctrinal rigidity, please!

Aiming for An Ally's "Ownership"

The following are simplistic, but give a flavor of "the approach" to prospective allies. I repeat: They are not "helpers." They are stakeholders with as much ownership/skin-in-the-game as you.

Herewith:

"Hey, I've been working on this idea; actually we've both talked about the issue before. Want to add your $2.22 [not $0.02] and help me develop it? Who knows, could be fun."

"We ran a little two-bit trial on part of this new program. Results look pretty good. Any chance you'd tweak it and try it with your team?"

"I've gotten these great results from this system tweak. But your group is very different from mine. If you like the data, would you consider doing something akin to it, using your parameters, at your place?"

"I tested this idea and had some pretty good results. Then Nancy James re-designed it big time for her department—and had promising results. Your department is more like hers than mine. If you're interested, I'm sure she'd be delighted to go through it with you."

Etc.

Etc.

All alliances are social—regardless of the role of self-interest. Tend to the social part—or perish.

“Allied commands depend on mutual confidence, and this confidence is gained, above all, through the development of friendships.” —General D.D. Eisenhower, on managing the impossible—the D-Day alliance

Change I: ALLIES.
ALLIES. ALLIES.
ALLIES. ALLIES.
ALLIES. (Then more* ALLIES.)

Change II: “Suck DOWN
for success.”

Change III: Demo. NOW.

ONE More/LAST Time:

Allies, Not Adversaries

“Overcoming resistance to change” is the quintessential B.S./misguided/stupid/ignorant approach to getting (important) things done.

Let me set you straight in precisely ... SEVENTEEN words:

Implementing desired change is not about “vanquishing” “enemies.”

Implementing desired change is about recruiting and nurturing allies.

That is the difference between ... Negative & Positive.

That is the difference between ... Enemies & Friends.

That is the difference between ... Fear & Fun.

That is the difference between ... Night & Day.

That is the difference between ... Hell & Heaven.

That is the difference between ... Failure & Success.

Q.E.D.

II. Do Good Work

I admit I've tired of Garrison Keillor, but I do like his tag line:

"Be well. Do good work. Keep in touch." My comments follow:

Garrison Keillor: "Do good work."

That is a powerful sentiment. How does today for you stack up on that "metric"?

Good work: Of service to our clients. Of service to our peers. Of service to our community. Committed to personal growth. Pushing the limits.

By definition "do good work" revolves around the phrase ...

"of service."

Good work: Help others grow. Infectious enthusiasm. Always approachable. A ready smile. Keeping promises. Learning. Learning. Learning.

Good work: The quality of the experience of producing the product is as important as the product itself.

Not sure why "do good work" struck me so hard. I guess I realize what a monumental challenge it is to live up to day in and day out.

Good work: Most of our conscious life will be at work. Like it or not. Waste your work life and you have effectively wasted your life.

III. “Must Do” Top-of-the-Morning Rituals

I launched the day with a few quick starter-to-dos for bosses. They were vigorously retweeted, so I decided to post them here. FYI:

MBWA. (Managing By Wandering Around.)

NOW.

PLEASE.

Take someone in another function to lunch. TODAY. DAMN IT.

Thank someone for bringing a SMILE to work today. Do it in the next ... 30 MINUTES.

Boss: Observe yourself closely over the next 60 MINUTES. Did you LISTEN more than you talked?

At the beginning of your next meeting THANK two people for SOMETHING.

THANK YOU for reading these tweets. Have a great day.

Close-the-Week/Friday Rituals

Have you prepped for your first meeting with your team today with the same care you'd put into a presentation to your boss? THIS is MORE important!

Bosses: The first ten minutes set the tone for the day. PERIOD.

Bosses/Repeat: MBWA for the first 15-30 minutes after arrival at the office.
Bosses: MBWA, last 15-30 minutes of the day/Friday. Thank a minimum of THREE people for something they did this week.

Bosses: Take someone new and different to lunch today.

Bosses: Re MBWA, saying thanks a couple of times, etc., how about a “daily rituals” list carried in your pocket to remind you of this stuff?

Bosses: How about a promise to yourself not to email/text/etc. any of your team this weekend?

Bosses: Like my old White House boss, set aside a half hour this afternoon to CALL 3-5 “outsider” folks who gave your team a hand this week.

(WH boss) was busiest guy I ever met, yet he did (his late-in-the-day “Thank you” ritual) EVERY day. And most calls were “down” to someone who'd offered a helping hand.

Lot of (my WH boss's) calls (this was the old days) were to secretaries/PAs of those above him: His secretaries network was his secret weapon.

Bosses/FACT: projects succeed/fail because of cooperation from OTHER functions. Find 2-3 of those “other function” folks to thank today.

Bosses/REMEMBER: *Suck DOWN for success!
(It's the efforts/energy of the network “below” you that makes you a hero ... or a goat!)*

I wrote In Search of Excellence about ONE thing: MBWA.

MBWA: *Being in touch, being human, emphasizing so-called “soft” factors, which are in fact true “hard” factors that drive success/growth/
profitability.*

IV. It's All About RELATIONSHIPS
It's All About the NETWORK

R.O.I.R. (Return On Investment in Relationships) >> R.O.I.

Investment in one's network is ultimate ...

CAPITAL investment!

Investment in one's network should be thoughtful, consistent, opposite of “catch as catch can.”

Lisa Radin “Would you call that: ‘Human Capital’?”

Call it CAPITAL. Period. Call it “human capital” & accountants (damn them) will call it “soft dollars.”

Lisa Radin: “You are right.”

Is anything MORE important than investment in one's Network?

Supremely stupid question.
Of course not!

V. My Training/Development ...

Obsession

I just scored Birthday #71. I am more determined than ever to shout/scream about CEOs (and other bosses at all levels) finally “Putting People First”—as their mission statements say, but which is contradicted by their actions. As tech change accelerates, this becomes more important with each passing day.

At an event in Milan (11/05), I passed out one item to the several thousand attendees. I labeled it my “#1 Belief.” To wit:

Your principal moral obligation as a leader is to develop the skillset, “soft” and “hard,” of every one of the people in your charge (temporary as well as semi-permanent) to the maximum extent of your abilities. The good news: This is also the #1 mid- to long-term ... profit maximization strategy!

Related to the statement-of-principle above, I fired off (right term) on Sunday (11/03) a series of tweets on training. Herewith:

Is your CTO/Chief Training Officer your top paid “C-level” job (other than CEO/COO)?

If not, why not?

Are your top trainers paid as much as your top marketers?

If not, why not?

Are your training courses so good they make you giggle?

If not, why not?

Randomly stop an employee in the hall: Can she/he describe her/his development plan for the next 12 months?

If not, why not?

Sunday/NFL game day (as this was written): “Players are our most important asset.” “No shit, Sherlock.” Football is a competitive BUSINESS.

If “people first” is obvious for them, why not you?

Study/inhale Matthew Kelly’s book The Dream Manager. It’s about a fictional sanitary services company. But it’s not fictional. I met the company’s CEO.

If them, why not you?

Check out a Marine E-6 (senior sergeant): Ask him/her about training and development objectives, and the intensity of the approach thereto.

If him, why not you?

Want to understand training in a super high-tech business? Talk to the commanding officer (effectively CTO) of a “boomer”/U.S. Navy nuclear sub patrolling the sea with nuclear-armed missiles on board.

If them, why not you?

Is your CTO/Chief Training Officer your top paid “C-level” job (other than CEO/COO)?

Are your top trainers paid as much as your top marketers/engineers?

(I would guess that most CEOs see IT investments as a “strategic necessity,” but see training expenses as “a necessary evil.”—TP)

(“In a connected economy, an employee investment is also a company brand investment.”—Vala Afshar)

Addenda: Training Is Not a “Do To”:

The-Prep-Is-The-Thing!

Sochi Olympics should remind us that extensive training is not something bosses “do to” people.

Training = Success.

Junior/senior. Age 17 (young Olympian) or 71 (me).

(My take: Many [most?] organizations training treated de facto penalty administered “to” rather than a ... magnificent Growth opportunity.)

You do not achieve mastery during the game or the speech or the concert. Mastery is achieved (only) in the (invisible) preparation stage.

(It often seems to me that the attitude toward training is, “another damn cost item,” or “How bloody much do we have to do?” On the receiving end, given the half-assed attention to the product (the training itself), the attitude is, “How much of this shit do we have to go through?” Instead I see—and I think everyone should see—training as

... THE COOLEST THING EVER. The matchless opportunity to help people Grow—and to help our organization achieve Excellence, which in turn can be translated into Ecstatic Customers—and, then, Ecstatic Shareholders. This whole topic, as ordinarily approached ... PISSES ME OFF SOOOOOO MUCH I QUAKE & SHAKE.)

If there is no joy and exhilaration

in preparing, success odds ... Z-E-R-O.

Training should be the highlight. Event an afterthought. (Event basically decided before you step in the field/stage.)

Hall of fame football coach Bill Walsh on prep: “The score takes care of itself.”

Basketball coach John Wooden, perhaps best coach of anything, ever:

“I was never much of a game coach, but I was a pretty good practice coach.”

For me, the pleasure is in increasing, at 1A.M. before a 9 A.M. speech, the font size of a single word I've decided to emphasize on PowerPoint slide #39.

My speech is effectively over before I step on stage.

Trevor Gay: Would rather hear “You clearly

Any idiot can be “psyched” & “up” when he steps on the field on game day. Key is being “psyched” &

“up” & 1st on the practice

Twitter comment by org development group: “We can help by integrating learning into work and ditching the term ‘training.’”

NO! NO! NO!

NO coverups!

Training WONDERFUL thing!

Training WONDERFUL word!

Make it so GREAT people BEG for it!

I LOVE to train.

I LOVE to improve. (Age 71.)

Gamblin' Man

Bet: >> 5 of 10 CEOs see training as expense rather than investment.

Bet: >> 5 of 10 CEOs see training as defense rather than offense.

Bet: >> 5 of 10 CEOs see training “necessary evil” rather than “strategic opportunity.”

Bet: >> 8 of 10 CEOs, in 45-min “tour d’horizon” of their biz, would not mention training.

VI. Leadership 2014: Job #1

“Employee development” is decidedly NOT an HR term; it is a reason for being, along with service to one’s customers:

Your principal moral obligation as a leader is to develop the skillset, “soft” and “hard,” of every one of the people in your charge (temporary as well as semi-permanent) to the maximum extent of your abilities. The good news: This is also the #1 mid- to long-term .. profit maximization strategy!

VII. “BREAKTHROUGH”* 2014! (*Duh.)

From the New York Times/01.05.14, courtesy Adam Davidson, Planet Money/NPR:

*“Contrary to conventional corporate thinking, treating retail workers much better may make everyone (including their employers) much richer.” ***

Cited in particular, “The Good Jobs Strategy,” by M.I.T. professor Zeynep Ton.

VIII. Joy! (Why Not?)

FUN. JOY. WORK. If you think the three are incompatible and you are a leader, I'd beg you to take a hike. (Seriously.)

Is your team having FUN today? If not, it's 100% your (leader's) fault. Soooooo?

With the likes of the fun-joy-work quote, I'm NOT trying to inspire you!! I'm simply asking you to think about it and perhaps talk about it.

Anon. (name withheld by me): "Our IT reorg the last 3 years hasn't been fun ... and many key people have left/leaving. The leader has stopped asking that question."

Fun is wholly unrelated to “funny.” To, I hope, state the obvious. And “fun” is hardly antithetical to “serious”—in fact, they are handmaidens.* (Doesn’t get much better than “serious fun.”) And it doesn’t mean that some bad days don’t simply suck. Instead, “deep fun” is about enjoying our teammates’ company—sharing in their successes and screw-ups; dropping what we’re doing, even when we’re on deadline, to help a teammate in a bind; seeking to change the game with our current project, even if it’s a wee project; etc.; etc.

(*“You can’t be a serious innovator unless and until you are ready, willing, and able to seriously play. ‘Serious play’ is not an oxymoron; it is the essence of innovation.”—Michael Schrage, Serious Play: How the World’s Best Companies Stimulate to Innovate)

FUN.

WORK.

(Plausible.)

(Compatible.)

(Effective.)

(TODAY.)

IX. The WOW-ification Imperative*

(*Okay. It's an ugly word. But this is my screed—and it works for me. You suit yourself. Many in the Twitter Gang approved—a few groaned.)

Innovation Index: How many of your “Top Five Projects” score 8 or higher (out of 10) on a “Weird”/“Profound”/“WOW”/“Game-changer” Scale?

WOW-ification Index: *Move every project (definition) that scores 6 or less 2 notches up on the “WOW-ification Scale” within the next two weeks. If your principal current project scores six or less, bring it up one (or two!) notches by noon on Monday.  (This tweet was written on a Sunday.)

X. Best or Bust: 1st-Line Leadership The Heart of EXCELLENCE

Is there a “secret” to productivity and employee satisfaction? Yes! The quality of your cadre of 1st-line managers.

How do I know 1st-line managers singly/collectively are major assets?

Simple: Ask a general or an admiral about the importance of their cadres of sergeants or chief petty officers.

“In great armies, the job of generals is to back up their sergeants.”—COL Tom Wilhelm, from Robert Kaplan, “The Man Who Would Be Khan,” The Atlantic

Are you clear that a 1st-line boss is a full-fledged

LEADER? (NEVER use any other term.)

Many take 1st-line bosses “seriously.” I urge you to take the cadre thereof INSANELY seriously.

“People leave managers not companies.” —Dave Wheeler*

(*Among other places, Wheeler’s assertion concerning the ... ABIDING IMPORTANCE OF 1ST-LINE LEADERSHIP ... is supported and assessed in Marcus Buckingham and Curt Coffman’s masterwork, First, Break All the Rules: What the World’s Greatest Managers Do Differently.)

10 Questions Concerning Your First-line Supervisors

1. Are you, Big Boss, a ... formal student ... of first-line supervisor behavioral excellence? (*Yes, this sort of thing can be formally studied.)
2. Do you absolutely understand and act upon the fact that the first-line boss is the ... KEY LEADERSHIP ROLE ... in the organization? Technical mastery is important—but secondary.
3. Does HR single out first-line supervisors individually and collectively for tracking purposes and special/“over the top” developmental attention?
4. Do you spend gobs and gobs (and then more and more gobs and gobs) of time ... selecting ... the first-line supervisors? Are your selection criteria consistent with the enormity of the impact that first-line bosses will subsequently have?
5. Do you have the ... ABSOLUTE BEST TRAINING & CONTINUING DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMS IN THE INDUSTRY (or some subset thereof) ... for first-line supervisors?
6. Do you formally and rigorously ... MENTOR ... first-line supervisors?
7. Are you willing, pain notwithstanding, to ... leave a first-line supervisor slot open ... until you can fill the slot with somebody spectacular? (And are you willing to use some word like ... “spectacular” ... in judging applicants for the job?)
8. Is it possible that ... PROMOTION DECISIONS ... for first-line supervisors are as, or even more, important than promotion decisions for the likes of VP slots? (Hint: Yes.)
9. Do you consider and evaluate the quality of your ... full set/ CADRE ... of first-line supervisors?
10. Are your first-line supervisors accorded the respect that the power of their position merits?

“secret” to productivity and employee satisfaction?*

YES!

*The Quality of your Full Cadre of ...
1st-line Leaders.*

Suggested addition to your Statement of Core Values:

“We are obsessed with developing a cadre of first-line managers that is second to none—we understand that this cadre per se is arguably one of our top two or three most important ... ‘STRATEGIC ASSETS.’”

XI. The “S-Train” Imperative

The “S train”: SM/Social Media. SX/Social eXecutives. SE/Social Employees.

SO/Social Organization. SB/Social

Business. Any way you look at it, it’s a full-fledged ... REVOLUTION!

It is axiomatic: SM/Social Media is wasted (almost a “total waste”?) without SE/Social Employees & SX/Social eXecutives & SO/Social Organization.

Can you have “social hot spots” in an organization & still play the Social Business Game effectively? I mostly don’t think so. It’s pretty close to “all or nothing.”

Can you have a “social business” if the CEO doesn’t play (i.e., is not a “Social eXecutive”)? I border on saying/believing “No way!”

The CEO should focus continuous/concentrated energy on creating/maintaining/adjusting the culture: SM/SX/SE/

SO/SB is a “culture play,” pure and simple.

Whole point of an effective Social Business: Everyone plays.

Marketing is the least of it. (Yes, I said “LEAST of it.”)

*EVERY function plays a crucial role.
The interaction PER SE puts the value added into the value added proposition.*

Power of the “social” is aborted if several bits/functions de facto or de jure opt out.

HR by definition is (should be!) at the center of the vortex if you truly want everyone to play ... The Great Social Game.

Can there be vigorous tension/disagreement within a committed Social Org? Not only “Yes” but “Damn well better be.” That’s the true nature of the Value Add.

A Few of My Favorite “Social” Quotes

Winning in Marketplace2014/A “Helping” Ethos!

“Today, despite the fact that we’re just a little swimming pool company in Virginia, we have the most trafficked swimming pool website in the world. Five years ago, if you’d asked me and my business partners what we do, the answer would have been simple,

‘We build in-ground fiberglass swimming pools’ Now we say, ‘We are the best teachers in the world on the subject of fiberglass swimming pools, and we happen to build them as well.’”

—Marcus Sheridan, River Pools and Spas (from Jay Baer, Youtility: Why Smart Marketing Is About Help, Not Hype)

“What if instead of trying to be ‘amazing’ you just focused on being useful? What if you decided to inform rather than promote? You know that expression, ‘If you give a man a fish, you feed him for a day. If you teach a man to fish, you feed him for a lifetime’? Well, the same is true for marketing: If you sell something, you make a customer today; if you help someone, you make a customer for life. I call this ‘Youtility.’ Youtility is marketing upside down. Instead of marketing that’s needed by companies, Youtility is marketing that’s wanted by customers. Youtility is massively useful information, provided for free, that creates longterm trust and kinship between your company and your customers. ... The way customers gather information about companies and make purchase decisions has changed. ...”

—Jay Baer, Youtility: Why Smart Marketing Is About Help, Not Hype

“We are the best teachers in the world on the subject of fiberglass swimming pools, and we happen to build them as well.”

—Marcus Sheridan, River Pools and Spas

(Apologies for stating the obvious: The point here is underscoring the possibility of a “pipsqueak” company becoming ... CENTER-OF-THE-UNIVERSE ... relative to its area of expertise.)

The Emergent Meaning of “Engagement”

“Customer engagement is moving from relatively isolated market transactions to deeply connected and sustained social relationships. This basic change in how we do business will make an impact on just about everything we do.”—Social Business by Design: Transformative Social Media Strategies for the Connected Company—Dion Hinchcliffe & Peter Kim

Marbles, a Ball, and Social Employees at IBM

“Picture a ball and a bag of marbles side by side. The two items might have the same volume—that is, if you dropped them into a bucket, they would displace the same amount of water. The difference, however, lies in the surface area, because a bag of marbles is comprised of several individual pieces, the combined surface area of all the marbles far outstrips the surface area of a single ball. The expanded surface area represents a social brand’s increased diversity. These surfaces connect and interact with each other in unique ways, offering customers and employees alike a variety of paths toward a myriad of solutions. If none of the paths prove to be suitable, social employees can carve out new paths on their own.”

1. Hiding is not an option.
2. Face it, you are outnumbered. ("Level playing field, arrogance denied.")
3. You no longer control the message.
4. Try acting like ... a human being.
5. Learn to listen, or else. ("REALLY listening to others is a must.")
6. Admit that you don't have all the answers.
7. Speak plainly and seek to inform.
8. Quit being a monolith. ("Your employees, speaking online as individuals, are a crucial resource ... can be managed through frameworks that ENCOURAGE participation.")
9. Try being less evil.
10. Pay it forward, now. ("Internet culture is largely built on the principle of the Gift Economy ... give value away to your online communities.")

The “Connection Machine”

“Once thinking is public, connections take over. Anyone who’s Googled a favorite hobby, food, or political subject has discovered some teeming site devoted to servicing the infinitesimal fraction of the public that shares their otherwise obscure obsession.

(Mine: guitar pedals, modular origami, and the 1970s anime show Battle of the Planets.) Propelled by the hyperlink, the Internet is a connection-making machine. And making connections is a big deal in the history of thought.”

XII. The “Sharing Economy”

The “sharing economy” is the rage—and, indeed, it is the real thing. The idea stems from an eternal verity. E.g., the quote below dates to 1868:

“Cast your bread upon the waters & it will come back battered.”

—Louisa May Alcott

Sharing matters.
Now more than ever.
(It's a "Share or else" economy.)
Sharing is ... fun.
Sharing is ... contagious.
Sharing ... works.
Gear up.
SHARE.
NOW.

XIII. The (All Powerful) “Hang Out Axiom”: Diversity (“lower case ‘d’” diversity) Rules

In every aspect of life, achieving true diversity is a winning strategy. And it must be constantly worked at. Homogeneity is always the default state.

I call it “lower case ‘d’ diversity”: diversity on any damned dimension you can imagine.

I call it the “squint test.” Forget quotas, but when you squint at an exec team photo, it ought to look more or less (more more than less) like the market being served.

Squint test redux: Women buy the lion’s share of retail AND commercial goods.*

Does your top team reflect that? (If it doesn’t, you’re an idiot.)

Diversity battlecry: Fight RHS! (Rampant Homogeneity Syndrome.)

Gary Hamel: “The bottleneck is at the top of the bottle.” Worst cases of RHS/Rampant Homogeneity Syndrome are boards and top teams.

Diversity: “You will become like the five people you associate with the most; this can be either a blessing or a curse.”—Billy Cox

“You are what you eat.”—Victor Lindlahr/nutritionist/1942 “You ARE who you hang out with.”—T. Peters (* “Forget China,

India, and the Internet: Economic Growth Is Driven by Women. ”)
—Headline, Economist

Diversity: Hang out with cool and thou shalt become more cool. Hang out with dull and thou shalt become more dull.

Diversity: Your “hang out with” “portfolio” can/should be as carefully managed/measured as your strategic plan—it IS your de facto strategic plan!

Diversity: Every relationship-partnership decision (employee/vendor/customer/etc.) is a strategic decision: “Innovate, ‘Yes’ or ‘No.’”

Diversity matters: Boards. Exec teams. Customers. Vendors. Consultants. Employees. Benchmarks. Who you go to lunch with. Etc.

Diversity: “Future-defining customers may account for only 2-3% of total, but represent a crucial window on the future.”—A. Slywotzky

Diversity: “Don’t benchmark, ‘Futuremark’!” (Source unk.) (Tomorrow is being played out today ... SOMEWHERE.)

Diversity: “Don’t benchmark, ‘Othermark’!” (Source unk.) (Look waaaay outside your industry for lessons.)

Diversity: “Companies have defined so much ‘best practice’ that they are now more or less identical.”—Jesper Kunde/Unique Now or Never

Diversity: “While everything may be better, it is also increasingly the same.”
—P. Goldberger on retail, “The Sameness of Things,” *NYTimes

Diversity: “The short road to ruin is to emulate the methods of your adversary.” —Winston Churchill

Diversity seeking: “Do one thing every day that scares you.” —Eleanor Roosevelt*

(*This is INCREDIBLY hard.)

Diversity seeking: Hire (explicitly) for curiosity.

Diversity battlecry: Fight ... RHS!

(Rampant Homogeneity Syndrome.)

Diversity/“Hang Out Axiom”/Billy Cox: “You will become like the five people you associate with the most; this can be either a blessing or a curse.”

XIV. The Ultimate Truth-teller: TIME!

Your calendar never lies.

Your calendar always knows.

(Do you?????)

The way we spend our time is our priorities.

The way we spend our time is our “strategy.”

The way we spend our time is what we (really) care about.

The way we spend our time is what we “are.”

The Rule of 50 & the Power of Daydreams

“Most managers spend a great deal of time thinking about what they plan to do, but relatively little time thinking about what they plan ... not to do. As a result, they become so caught up ... in fighting the fires of the moment that they cannot really attend to the long-term threats and risks facing the organization. So the first soft skill of leadership the hard way is to cultivate the perspective of Marcus Aurelius:

avoid busyness, free up your time, stay focused on what really matters. Let me put it bluntly: every leader should routinely keep a substantial portion of his or her time—I would say as much as

50 percent—unscheduled. ... Only when you have substantial ‘slop’ in your schedule—unscheduled time—will you have the space to reflect on what you are doing, learn from experience, and recover from your inevitable mistakes. Leaders without such free time end up tackling issues only when there is an immediate or visible problem. Managers’ typical response to my argument about free time is, ‘That’s all well and good, but there are things I have to do.’ Yet we waste so much time in unproductive activity—it takes an enormous effort on the part of the leader to keep free time for the truly important things.”

“The Discipline Of Daydreaming”: “Nearly every major decision of my business career was, to some degree, the result of daydreaming. ... To be sure, in every case I had to collect a lot of data, do detailed analysis, and make a data-based argument to convince superiors, colleagues, and business partners. But that all came later.

In the beginning, there was the ... daydream.

By daydreaming, I mean loose, unstructured thinking with no particular goal in mind. ... In fact, I think daydreaming is a distinctive mode of cognition especially well suited to the complex, ‘fuzzy’ problems that characterize a more turbulent business environment. ... Daydreaming is an effective way of coping with complexity. When a problem has a high degree of complexity, the level of detail can be overwhelming. The more one focuses on the details, the more one risks being lost in them. ... Every child knows how to daydream. But many, perhaps most, lose the capacity as they grow up. ...”

Calendar Query #1

(Precisely) how are you going to make the next 15 minutes matter?

XV. Civility!

Marissa Mayer keeps execs waiting in place for hours for a meeting she called. (Per Vanity Fair) Contemptible behavior by any measure.* (*Marissa Mayer has a lot of company in the less-than-civil-behavior league. But a timely article in VF enraged me—and triggered this twitterant.)

Marissa Mayer keeps execs waiting for hours: Can you imagine Warren Buffett doing that?

Dave Farley: “Astonishingly rude! I gave my former CEOs 15-30 minutes, then I leave. If one tolerates rudeness (abuse), it never ends.”

No one is so good at what they do to get a bye for rude behavior. Un-productive doesn't faze me. Un-civil/purposeful incivility turns me ... purple with rage.

I'm quite sure Ms. Mayer has no interest in meeting me. I know I have no interest in meeting her.

As a 71-year-old, I'd prefer my tombstone not say, “He made a lot of $$$, but at the end of the day he was a real shit.”

Reading recommendation for Ms. Mayer: Rules of Civil Behavior in Company & Conversation, by George Washington

My favorite in G.Washington's book civil behavior: “Always stand when someone, junior or senior, enters the room.”

(I'm loath to admit it—but sometimes I'm distracted and violate this rule. I kick myself for days. Same with failure to make eye contact.)

Paul Walker: “And move out from behind your desk if you have one.”

John Grinnell: “Civil behavior is called civil for a reason. It's the basis of civilization. Hard earned, can be lost.”

Hyper-disciplined Marissa Mayer never keeps outsiders waiting, which makes her (hence purposeful) behavior toward insiders even more contemptible.

My rule: More important to be on time for insider meetings than outsider meetings. (Happy insiders yield better results—which makes outsider meetings easier.)

Tim Brander: “Internal courtesy sets the tone for external relationships.”

I might be tempted to keep someone waiting, but I would feel the lingering sting of my mother’s roundhouse slap and mend my ways posthaste. Dave Wheeler:

“MBMR. Management By Mom’s Rules. Good Home Training applied can be a performance multiplier and persona ‘differentiator.’”

Richard Branson: “Respect is how to treat everyone, not just those you want to impress.”

Stretching only a little, I'd say sales is easy if you have a reasonably good product and unreasonably good manners. :-)

Vala Afshar: “We are not a team because we work together. We are a team because we respect, trust, and care for each other.”

Sunny Bindra: “You’re not ‘running late,’ you’re rude and selfish.”

Craig Lorne: “Rudeness is lifeblood of forgetting who you serve. Good CEOs support the customers and staff and value follows.”

Horatio Nelson: “I have always been a quarter of an hour before my time, and it has made a man of me.”

Since “showing up” is 80% of winning the game, we should bless the laties for making it so easy for us ontimies to win.

(For NFL nuts re this stream, Tom Landry and Bill Walsh were first and foremost gentleman. Fact: Fits comfortably with fierce competitiveness.)

There is a time and place for civility. All the time.

Every place.

Manners =

Respect.

“M.R.I. means ‘most respectful interpretation’ of what someone’s saying to you. I don’t need everyone to be best friends, but I need to have a team with M.R.I. So you can say anything to anyone as long as you say it the right way. Maybe you need to practice with, ‘Can you help me understand why you don’t want to do this or why you wanted to do that.’ ... I just make it so it’s a human environment.”

—Robin Domeniconi, CMO. Rue La La, a flash sale web site (from Adam Bryant, Quick and Nimble: Lessons from Leading CEOs on How to Create a Culture of Innovation)

XVI. Politics Is Life. The Rest Is ...

The definition of politics is: The essence of getting things done.

Politics is the lifeblood of getting ANYTHING done.

If you dislike politics, then you dislike implementation. PERIOD.

I'm flabbergasted by anyone not understanding that to get anything done he/she must pursue/achieve mastery of politics/political process.

If you dislike politics, then it is a dreadful mistake to be in charge of anything.

To hate all politics is to hate the fact that you were born into the human race.

Politics haters are the same ones who tell the jokes about "Getting things done would be walk in the park if not for the damn people."

Glen Flook: "OMG how true-life is a political process."

Emmanuel Gobillot: "You are so right. Politics is the engine of power. Dismiss either and you are dismissing humanity's search for meaning."

The most activist political bodies I know are families with two teenage kids. Inspiring aspirations, treachery, etc., etc.

There will always be hierarchy. There will always be politics. The idea is to do it well and toward an honorable end.

Brian Scatland: "Majoring in political science served my business career better than my MBA."

Read Robert Caro's Master of the Senate. LBJ was a Master Scientist of political process!

Want to save the world? Polio vaccine is useless unless you master the politics of distribution in an impoverished setting!

A process not based on messy human reality is pie-in-the-sky.

*If you dislike politics, then you dislike implementation.
PERIOD.*

If you dislike politics, then it is a dreadful mistake to be in charge of anything.

To hate all politics is to hate the fact that you were born into the human race.

If you give a shit about something, you'll automatically “go political” to gain others' support.

I've never observed a big company that's not very “political.” Great New Yorker article on the “new” super-companies (Google, et al.); they are fundamentally the same as old supercos in terms of hierarchy, power plays and power trips, politics.

Who says politics is not rational? An asinine notion. It's “political process,” but rational if you are a student of politics. If you're not, then leading anything is the wrong career choice.

Politics = Life:

Good restaurants.

Bad restaurants.

Good politics.

Bad politics.

I'm flabbergasted by anyone not understanding that to get anything done he/she must pursue/achieve mastery of politics/political process.

XVII. Meetings EXCELLENCE

Like it or lump it: Meetings are what bosses “do.” Get over it. Act accordingly.

THE meeting issue for boss/chair is: Will (this meeting) be a Model of Excellence?
“Excellence standard” applies as much to a meeting as to ballet/football.

Theater is event. Football game is event. Surgery is event. And meeting is event. It’s up to you whether the standard is mediocrity or excellence.

Meeting: “Theater of inquiry and persuasion and motivation and engagement and enhanced teamwork.”

Boss: If staff leaves “morning meeting” less than inspired ... then you pissed the day away due to gross negligence.

Boss: Only ONE key word concerning EVERY meeting.
PREPARATION.

Grade yourself on meeting prep today. Be tough. Odds of 4.0 GPA low.

Meetings = #1 leadership opportunity. PERIOD.

Every meeting that does not stir the imagination and curiosity of attendees and increase bonding and cooperation and engagement and sense of worth and motivate rapid action and enhance enthusiasm is a permanently lost opportunity.

The key word is NOT “control.” The keyword IS “Excellence.”

Does your organization have a full-fledged training course titled “Conducting Excellent Meetings”? If not, why not?

I am not in the least bit interested in “better/well run meetings.” I am interested in “EXCELLENT meetings.” For heaven’s sake, why not?

Scheduling is your personal responsibility. A failing grade almost guarantees failing longterm performance.

Over-scheduling is a mortal, not venial, sin.

*I am not in the least bit interested in “better/well run meetings.” I am interested in “EXCELLENT meetings.” For heaven’s sake,
why not?*

XVIII. Email Excellence (Why Not?)

17 January 2014: Thank you Chris Christie: Anyone who puts anything in any email that might embarrass him/her next week, next month, in 2024, is an ... IDIOT.

A sloppy* email is a total piece of crap. STOP!

(*Sloppy: Ungrammatical. Poorly argued. Equivocal—could be interpreted multiple ways. Flippantly critical of someone/anyone. Rude. Etc. Etc. I.e., “unprofessional.”)

On The Ball Theory: “Write, rewrite, wait, and then send—the modern version of think before you speak!”

Assume your boss’s boss will read any email you write.

Assume your least supportive colleagues will read any email you write.

Assume one or > one customer will read any email you write.

Assume that any “clever” email you write will go viral.

(Assume your mom will read any email you write. Sorry, couldn't resist.)

Medieval times (1999): Oral hissy fit would mostly evaporate in 4-5 days. Modern times, no matter how limited the distribution, it may go viral.

Hasty emotional response is the nightmare scenario!

Same rules for “personal” emails as “professional” ones. Personal emails frequently are not personal.

EMAIL.

EXCELLENCE.

Make this duo a tautology—not an oxymoron.

XIX. The Response Is The Problem

I call it ... Service Rule #1A

*The problem is rarely/never the problem. The response to the problem invariably ends up being the real problem.

*This sounds like an exaggeration. It is ... NOT. From screwed-up U.S. presidencies to losing multi-billion $$ sales, it seems invariably to be a clumsy response to something (initially) relatively small that sets in motion a full-fledged meltdown.

Service Rule #1B

The 3-minute Rule

There once was a time when a three-minute phone call would have avoided setting off the downward spiral that resulted in a complete rupture.

Service Rule #1C

Employees FIRST!

David Spellman:

“Customers will only love a company that loves its employees.”

BCMac: “My corollary is, ‘How we treat one another is ultimately how we treat the clients.’”

Vala Afshar: *“I’ve always said
‘You can’t remain a great company on the outside if you aren’t one on the inside.’”*

TP/FYI: This is NOT guru bullshit. This is hard-nosed fact.

Service Rule #1D

ADDICTED to Helping

Twitter comment: “If a window of opportunity opens, do not pass it by or close it.”

There is no “if”: A “window of opportunity” opens

EVERY day for

EVERY one of us—e.g., helping someone out, unbidden, for 10 minutes.

If you don’t help someone out in some little way every day (at work) you are only half a human.

Instinctively helping others at work (little hand on little thing) is the single best builder of a positive/people-centric/customer-centric culture.

“Helping” (on every dimension and throughout our community of stakeholders) is not “soft.” It is the core of a profit-maximizing STRATEGY.

“Stuff” like listening and helping are core of STRATEGY. (Not mere tactics.)

Doug Shaw: “I have a few key principles I operate by. Offering help is the first one. That's where it all starts.”

(Doug Shaw: “Here’s the full set. Offer help. Experiment. Stay in touch. Speak your mind. Lead by example. Be genuinely interested in people.”) Helping someone out is not “nice”; as a practice, it is a CSA/Core Strategic Asset.

Vala Afshar: “If you are not helpful, you are not influential.”

Patricia Martin: “Small stuff done well breeds confidence and opens field of possibilities, too.”

ADDICTION

(to helping).

Excellence is fun. “Small stuff” is more important than big stuff to make it habit-forming & spread the contagion.

Practice of Excellence: ALL MOTIVATION IS SELF-MOTIVATION. PERIOD.

(Boss “just” creates platform, offers encouragement.)

Vala Afshar: “A social business feels like a village—people know your name, doors are open late, lights are always on, and people care.”

Frankly, that’s why it’s (a social business) not an engineered “system,” but a way of being

If you don't help someone out in some (little) way every day (at work) you are only half a human.

XX. Christmas “Thank You” Chronicles

PLEASE consider this. Monday 23rd [December, 2013] or Fri 27th or Mon 30th or

Tues 31st: CALL 10-50 people to thank
'em for their support in 2013.

The two most important words in leader’s language:

“Acknowledge” & “Appreciate.”

So at year’s end work your ass off on acknowledgement/appreciation.

21 Dec/I have decided to bug you every day until New Year’s Eve to CALL 10-50 people to thank them for their support in 2013.

David Ivers: “It works well Tom! I personally delivered to the 14 people on my team a handwritten Christmas Card with a small Lindt Chocs box.”

21 Dec/Christmas gift from you today. If shopping, be especially courteous to grouches and smile at stressed-out staff even if service is sub-par.

21 Dec/Best Christmas gift I’ve heard of this year: Customer brings a cup of coffee mid-morning to our beleaguered local postal clerk.

21 Dec/If, like many of us, you’re shopping today, enjoy the madness. Engage the madness in the spirit of Christmas.

21 Dec/Saturday before Christmas. Cherish the madness. You’re only here for a little while.

21 Dec/ Be present today. It's the greatest gift you can give.

21 Dec/The worse your voice, the more vigorously you should sing the Carol. It's about spirit, not 6-sigma quality.

21 Dec/Pop into a church and light a candle for someone sick today. (Even if you are a strict non-believer.)

21 Dec/Make those calls to thank people for their support. Promise: You will enjoy it immensely. (We all need a kick in the ass. Once you start, you'll really get off on it.)

21 Dec/John Barnes: “On your advice, I've been doing this for 3 years, always one of the professional highlights of the year.”

Dave Wheeler: “And spend a few words/seconds to thank your frontline team individually and personally! Cost minimal. ROI monstrous!”

21 Dec/Dave: “Cost < 0 because it ends up making you feel good at least as much as recipient!”

21 Dec/Nosy me. Asked grocery checkout person how many say “Happy Holidays.” She said probably 1 in 4 or 5, “less by late afternoon.”

21 Dec/Real key is making kind comment ... WITH EYE CONTACT. Otherwise the gesture is diminished by three-quarters.

Trevor Gay: “Best gift I've had this Christmas was the chat I had with the homeless guy when I took my dog for walk today. Feel blessed.”

Monday 12/23: Go on a “Thank you” binge. DAMN IT.

The degree to which the average analytically trained businessperson fails to appreciate TYP/Thank You Power is staggering/pathetic.

If you feel awkward saying “Thank you,” it’s because you haven’t practiced enough.

If you feel awkward saying “Thank you,” tell the person you are thanking that you feel awkward. Zounds. The credit you will get.

Can you say “Thank you” too much? Doubtless, yes. But in the human race’s first 60,000 or so years, no one has overdone it so far.

I worry about Syrian civil war & 7,999,999 other things. That people will say thank you too much didn’t make my “Top 8,000,000 Worries” list.

Steve Pfistner: “Ah, the joy of affirming another fellow humanoid.”

“Affirming another humanoid”—Love it!

Handwritten notes make me weak in the knees.

An “almost” guarantee: Even if your first “Thank yous” seem forced, the response will be so overwhelming that you’ll soon be in the groove.

At the very least, you can do a “Hey, thanks, bro, somehow we survived another year.”

Mike Ferguson: “You’re saying I have to make a call, not email, right? I thought so. Okay okay okay.”

Ever heard the phrase “Bet your sweet ass”?

Cindy Starks: “This is one of those things that I just don’t understand. I’ve tried. Why is it so hard for people to say ‘Thank You’ or ‘Thanks’”?

I am as befuddled as you are.

Drew: “The importance of ‘Thank you’ is drilled into children, yet often lost on adults. It’s something I had to relearn.”

Jeff Hathaway: “Things like ‘Thank you’ should be on the list called ‘assumptions,’ especially for leaders. Maybe why the future is brighter for Women?”

John Hinton III: “I always say ‘Please’ and ‘Thank you.’ You never know what type of day someone is having. Best way to convey appreciation.”

John Wheaton (engineering chief): “#1 reason engineers leave biz is they are not appreciated.”

Damn right, John. We engineers are human, too. :-)

John Wheaton: “Say [‘Thank you’] in Monday meetings. Say it on rounds. The more you say it the easier it is.”

Catherine Huggins: “Expressing thanks is just another way of acknowledging life is bigger than any one individual.”

Lisa Rokusek: “Often it takes the doing of gratitude to ignite the feeling. We can’t let a lack of feeling stop us from grateful actions.”

Lars Leafblad (fundraiser): “The five seconds of silence I experience when I call a donor for no other reason than thank you is deafening!”

Trevor Gay: “In my experience the most well received ‘Thank you’ is one for doing your routine task.”

Amen!!!!!!! My version: No one ever has an “average day.” There’s always something worth noting.

“The Power of Thanks” is well supported by science, too:

XXI. The (Awesome) Power of ... Acknowledgement

“The deepest principle in human nature is the craving to be appreciated.”—William James

“The two most powerful things in existence: a kind word and a thoughtful gesture.”—Ken Langone

“Good leaders make people feel that they’re at the very heart of things, not at the periphery.”—Warren Bennis

The (Awesome) Power of Acknowledgement: NOTEBOOK Power

Whenever you are interviewing or meeting with someone ... carry (without fail) a notebook.

Take notes.

To be sure, you'll doubtless hear something worth recording. But, mainly (without fail) you will gain the enduring respect of the person you are interacting with.

Why?

By recording their ideas you are saying, in effect, “I think you have something to say worthy of recording and I wish to capture it for eternity.”

Always carry the notebook. Take copious notes. Record info. AND: It's the ultimate form of flattery/acknowledgement/respect.

Joel Heffner/Creativity Kit: Field Notes

Stefan Stern: "The bosses who don't take notes may also be the ones who say 'Got it!' too quickly when in truth they aren't really listening."

Sachin Shah: "I got our EO's asst to take notes in her meetings so she could listen. She estimated $50k gain in her productivity."

Note to bosses: In your last conversation with an employee, how many pages of notes did you take?

(Query to bosses: In your last conversation with an employee, did you listen at least 75% of the time?)

Listening is ... the core of taking Diverse opinions aboard.

FYI: Harvard Med School doc Jerome Groopman, in his book How Doctors Think, tells us that the patient is the doctor's best source of evidence about the patient's problem. Then, citing hard-nosed research, Groopman asks, “On average, how long does the patient speak before the doc interrupts?”

Answer?

“18 ... seconds.”

“Let Silence Do the Heavy Lifting”

—chapter title from Susan Scott, Fierce Conversations: Achieving Success at Work and in Life, One Conversation at a Time

“There is a profound difference between having a title ... and being someone to whom people commit at the deepest level. If we wish to accomplish great things in our organizations, we must come to terms with a basic human need: a universal longing to be known.”

—Susan Scott, “Be Here, Be Prepared to Be Nowhere Else,” chapter title, Fierce Conversations: Achieving Success at Work and in Life, One Conversation at a Time

“It was much later that I realized Dad’s secret. He gained respect by giving it. He talked and listened to the fourth-grade kids in Spring Valley who shined shoes the same way he talked and listened to a bishop or a college president. He was seriously interested in who you were and what you had to say.” —Sara Lawrence-Lightfoot, Respect

The Good Listener's Rules ...

Exists totally for the given conversation. There is nothing else on earth of importance for those 45 minutes.

To co-opt a great book*: fierce attentiveness.
(Susan Scott, Fierce Conversations)

Keep your f-ing mouth shut.

Gives the other person time to stumble toward clarity without interruption.

NEVER finishes the other person's sentence.

Becomes invisible; make the other person the centerpiece.

Does not EVER take a call, even from their boss.

Takes (extensive) notes.

Calls (emails) a couple of hours later to thank the other for their time.

Calls the next day with a couple of follow-up queries.

Leaves it mostly open-ended; does not conclude with your view of the world.

Doesn't pontificate for even 17 seconds!

Tom Asacker: "It doesn't matter what people think about you. Rather how you make them feel about themselves in your presence."

TP: Stunningly well said.

Listening-as-PROFESSION

I consider bosses of units > 25 employees with no substantial ... FORMAL LISTENING TRAINING ... to be guilty of dereliction of duty.

Tim Baker: “Simply put, I think many people underestimate the effort proper listening requires.”

If you ain't exhausted (after a serious conversation), then you weren't really listening. (That is not a throwaway line.)

Really* listening is literally the most exhausting activity I know—that includes vigorous physical activities.

Saurabh Gupta: “Not only effort but concentration as well.”

John Morrison: “It’s not ‘listening’; it’s ‘absorbing’ ...”

Trevor Gay: “I’ve a friend-mental health counselor; if he sees 3 patients a day he is exhausted & is TOO BUSY.”

House of Faith (Twitter I.D.): “Listening is a lost art today. The ability to ‘talk over’ another is prized. Loose lips still sink ships!”

Tim Baker: “There are those who listen and there are those who are just waiting to talk (again) (and again).”

Preparing retort while another is talking = Anti-listening.

McKinsey (in my time): ZERO interest in topic per se, 100% prepping to demo intellectual horsepower w/ clever retort.

Susan Cain addresses this brilliantly in her book Quiet. (Alas, research clearly indicates we evaluate the “talk over” types as smarter. More fools us!)

Then there’s my motto: 100% of communication failures are ... my fault. (It is up to me as communicator to figure out how to be effective in communicating with any given person in the immediate context of the exchange—e.g., they’re having a bad day, good day, etc.)

FYI, if you do public speaking, listening to your audience is still skill #1. I bet I make 200 adjustments in a 1-hour speech based on what I “hear.”

Rich McDonald: “DITTO! It’s why I don’t memorize ANY scientific presentations; I listen to audience’s words ... & ‘listen’ to their eyes/grunts/hand gestures/posture.”

Key word (re listening):

PRACTICE!

Effective listening is a ...

PROFESSION!

It's no different than neurosurgery or particle physics. Study and practice and refresh accordingly.

Professional Skill #1 for every leader is ...

LISTENING! (Does 1

b.school in 20 teach it as full-blown core course?)

B.School: 3 finance courses, 3 accounting courses, 3 marketing courses,

ZERO listening courses.

IMPEACH the Dean/s!

No listening course at your b.school?

Demand a full tuition refund with interest plus a letter of apology signed by the dean.

Cary Cooper: “When have managers ever been trained to be on ‘receive’ rather than ‘transmit’? Our B.Schools don’t teach it, neither do exec programs!”

Edward Nevraumont: “Forget a course on listening, why not start with a class? Most B.Schools throw their hands in the air on Leadership in general.”

All generals, admirals, and to give him/her* regular feedback on listening behavior. (*FYI: Evidence and anecdote are both crystal clear: WOMEN are, indeed, better listeners—and, yes, more often than not better leaders—than men.)

Trevor Gay: “I once had a boss who regularly

asked me; *‘Have you

(Last word: A key reason In Search of Excellence was successful: Bob Waterman was/is a peerless listener!)

LISTENING Redux: Quiet, Please!

“We live with a value system that I call the Extrovert Ideal—the omnipresent belief that the ideal self is gregarious, alpha, and comfortable in the spotlight. The archetypal extrovert prefers action to contemplation, risk-taking to heed-taking, certainty to doubt. ... We think that we value individuality, but all too often we admire one type of individual ... Introversion is now a second-class personality trait. ... The Extrovert Ideal has been documented in many studies. Talkative people, for example, are rated as smarter, better looking, more interesting, and more desirable as friends. Velocity of speech counts as well as volume: We rank fast talkers as more competent and likeable than slow ones. But we make a grave mistake to embrace the Extrovert Ideal so unthinkingly. ... As the science journalist Winifred Gallagher writes, ‘The glory of the disposition that stops to consider stimuli rather than rushing to engage with them is its long association with intellectual and artistic achievement. Neither E = mc squared or Paradise Lost was dashed off by a party animal.’ Even in less obviously introverted occupations, like finance, politics, and activism, some of the greatest leaps forward were made by introverts ... figures like Eleanor Roosevelt, Warren Buffett and Gandhi achieved what they did not in spite of but because of their introversion.”—Susan Cain, Quiet: The Power of Introverts in a World That Can’t Stop Talking

“If you are a manager, remember that one third to one half of your workforce is probably introverted, whether they appear that way or not.

Think twice about how you design your organization’s office space. Don’t expect introverts to get jazzed up about open office plans or, for that matter, lunchtime birthday parties or teambuilding retreats. Make the most of introverts’ strengths—these are the people who can help you think deeply, strategize, solve complex problems, and spot canaries in your coal mine.

“Also remember the dangers of the new groupthink. If it’s creativity you’re after, ask your employees to solve problems alone before sharing their ideas ... Don’t mistake assertiveness or elegance for good ideas. If you have a proactive workforce (and I hope you do), remember that they may perform better under an introverted leader than under an extroverted or charismatic one.”—Susan Cain, Quiet: The Power of Introverts in a World That Can’t Stop Talking

“The next time you see a person with a composed face and a soft voice, remember that inside her mind she might be solving an equation, composing a sonnet, designing a hat. She might, that is, be deploying the power of quiet.” —Susan Cain, Quiet: The Power of Introverts in a World That Can’t Stop Talking

XXIII. The BIG THREE

What do we (actually) ... Do?

TALK. (Present.)

LISTEN.

WRITE.

Why have we most likely never studied the first two* (*especially #2/Listening), and probably not studied the third since high school?

Anybody up for ... MASTERY?

XXIV. The 50 “Have Yous”

While waiting in the Albany airport to board a Southwest Airlines flight to Reagan one morning, I happened across the latest Harvard Business Review, on the cover of which was a bright yellow “lead article” sticker. On it were the words “Mapping your competitive position.” It referred to a feature article by my friend and admired colleague Rich D’Aveni.

Rich’s work is uniformly good—and I have said as much publicly on many many occasions dating back 15 years. Moreover, I’m sure this article is first-rate, too—though I admit I didn’t read it.

In fact, it triggered a furious negative “Tom reaction,” as my wife calls it. Of course I believe you should worry about your “competitive position.” But instead of obsessing on competitive position and other abstractions, as the B.Schools and consultants would invariably have us do, I instead wondered about some “practical stuff,” which I believe is far, far more important to the short- and long-term “strategic” health of the enterprise, tiny or enormous.

Hence, rather than an emphasis on competitive maps or looking for a “blue ocean” (empty space, per the popular book Blue Ocean Strategy), I urge you to pay attention to my 50 “Have Yous,” as I call them. The list could easily be three times as long—but this ought to keep you occupied for a while. Of course, the underlying hypothesis is that if you proactively do the “small stuff” below, your “competitive position” will improve so much that mapping will become a secondary issue!

Herewith:

TODAY?

1. Have you called a customer ...
2. Have you in the last 10 days ... visited a customer?
3. Have you in the last 60-90 days ... had a seminar in which several folks from a key customer’s operation (different levels, different functions, different divisions) interacted, via facilitator, with various of your folks? (Goal: Fully integrates us with our key customers—and makes it clear we want to get to know them on all levels.)
4. Have you thanked a front-line employee for a small act of helpfulness ... in the last three days?

5. Have you thanked a front-line employee for a small act of helpfulness in the last ...

THREE HOURS?

6. Have you thanked a front-line employee for carrying around a great attitude ... TODAY?

7. Have you in the last week recognized—publicly—one of your folks for a small act of cross-functional cooperation? (“Small,” social acts enhancing cross-functional bonding may be my Obsession #1.)

8. Have you in the last week recognized—publicly—one of “their” folks (another function) for a small act of cross-functional cooperation with your gang?

9. Have you invited in the last month a leader of another function to your weekly team priorities meeting?

10. Have you personally in the last week-month called-visited an internal or external customer to sort out, inquire, or apologize for some little or big thing that went awry? (No reason for doing so? If true—in your mind—then you’re more out of touch than I dared imagine. Pity.)

11. Have you in the last two days had a chat with someone (a couple of levels “down”) about specific deadlines concerning a project’s next steps?

12. Have you in the last two days had a chat with someone (a couple of levels “down”?) about specific deadlines concerning a project’s next steps ... and what specifically you can do to remove a hurdle? (Boss as CHRO, Chief Hurdle Removal Officer. Peter Drucker: “Ninety percent of what we call ‘management’ is doing things that make it more difficult to get things done.”)

13. Have you celebrated in the last week a “small” (or large!) milestone reached? (I.e., are you a milestone fanatic? Are you a celebration fanatic?)

14. Have you in the last week or month revised some estimate in the “wrong” direction (i.e., acknowledged that things were more problematic than previously estimated) and apologized for making a lousy estimate? (Somehow or other you must publicly reward the telling of difficult truths—and the reporting of bad news.)

15. Have you installed in your tenure a very comprehensive customer satisfaction scheme for all your internal customers? (With major consequences for hitting or missing the mark.)

16. Have you in the last six months made a week-long, visible, very intensive visit-tour of external customers’ operations?

17. Have you in the last 60 days called an abrupt halt to a meeting and “ordered” everyone to get out of the office and “into the field” immediately with the order to fix (f-i-x, finito!) some/any nagging “small” problem through immediate practical action?

18. Have you in the last week had a rather thorough discussion of a “trivial” “cool design thing” someone has come across—away from your industry or your function—at a website or in a product or its packaging? And do you urge/insist that everyone (every one) be on the lookout for, bring in, and present “incredibly cool stuff I’ve found” from “everyday life”?

19. Have you in the last two weeks had an informal meeting—at least an hour long—with a front-line employee to discuss “things we do right,” “things we do wrong,” and “What would it take to turn this job into something approaching their “dream job”?”

20. Have you in the last 60 days had a general meeting to discuss “things we do wrong” ... that we can fix in the next 14 days? (With follow-up exactly 14 days later.)

21. Have you had, in the last year, a one-day, intense offsite with each of your principal internal customers—followed by a substantial celebration of “things gone right” on both parties’ parts?

22. Have you in the last week privately pushed someone to do some family thing that you fear might be overwhelmed by internal deadline pressure?

23. Have you learned the names of the children of everyone who reports to you? (If not, you have 30 days to fix it.)

24. Have you taken, in the last month (two weeks?), an interesting-weird outsider to lunch? And, do you keep careful track of “weirdo lunches”?

25. Have you in the last month invited an interesting-weird outsider to sit in on an important meeting?

26. Have you, in the last three days, discussed in a meeting something interesting, beyond your industry, that you ran across while reading, etc.? (This means more than an email from you with a cyberlink or two.)

27. Have you in the last 24 hours injected into a meeting “I ran across this interesting idea in (strange place)”?

28. Have you in the last two weeks asked someone to report on something, anything that constitutes an act of brilliant service rendered in a “trivial” situation—restaurant, car wash, etc.? (And then discussed the relevance to your work—and then implemented on-the-spot some little thing from what they learned?)

29. Have you in the last 30 days examined in detail (hour by hour) your calendar to evaluate the degree to which “time actually spent” mirrors your “espoused priorities”?

(And repeated this exercise with everyone on the team.)

30. Have you in the last two months had a presentation to your group by a “weird” outsider?

31. Have you in the last two months had a presentation to the group by a customer, internal customer, vendor featuring “working folks” 3 or 4 levels down in the vendor/customer/internal customer organization (and in your organization)?

32. Have you in the last two months had a presentation to the group of a cool, beyond-our-industry idea by two of your folks?

33. Have you at every meeting today (and forevermore) redirected the conversation to the practicalities of implementation concerning some issue before the group?

34. Have you at every meeting today (and forevermore) had an end-of-meeting discussion on “action items to be dealt with in the next 4, 24, 48 hours”? (And then made this list public—and followed up in 4 or 24 or 48 hours.) (And made sure everyone has at least one such item.)

35. Have you had a discussion in the last six months about what it would take to get recognition in a local-national poll of ... “best places to work”?

36. Have you in the last month approved a cool-different-very different training course for one of your folks?

37. Have you in the last month taught a front-line training course?

38. Have you in the last week discussed the idea of Excellence per se? (What it means, how to get there, concerning a current project.)

39. Have you in the last week discussed the idea of ...

“Wow”? (What it means, how to inject it into an ongoing “routine” project.)

40. Have you in the last 45 days assessed some major internal process in terms of the details of the “experience,” as well as results it provides to external or internal customers?

41. Have you in the last month had one of your folks attend a meeting you were supposed to go to, which therefore gives them unusual exposure to senior folks?

42. Have you in the last 60 (30?) (15?) (7?) days sat with a trusted friend or “coach” to discuss your “management style”—and its long- and short-term impact on the group?

43. Have you in the last three days considered a professional relationship that was a little rocky and made a call to the person involved to discuss issues and smooth the waters? (Taking the “blame,” fully deserved or not, for letting the thing-issue fester.)

44. Have you in the last ... two hours ... stopped by someone’s (two-levels “down”) office-workspace for 5 minutes to ask “What do you think?” about an issue that arose at a more or less just completed meeting? (And then stuck around for 10 or so minutes to listen—and visibly taken notes.)

45. Have you ... in the last week ... looked around you (“eyeballed”) to assess whether the diversity of the group pretty accurately mirrors the diversity of the market being served?

(And began to act on the disparity, if it exists?)

46. have you in the last day at some meeting gone out of your way to make sure that a normally reticent person has been engaged in a conversation—and then thanked him or her, perhaps privately, for their contribution?

47. Have you in the last four months had a half-day, full-team session specifically aimed at checking on the “corporate culture” and the degree we are true to it—with presentations by relatively junior folks, including front-line folks? (And with a determined effort to keep the conversation restricted to “real world” “small” cases—not theory.)

48. Have you in the last six months talked about the Internal Brand Promise—i.e., what you and the organization promise to employees in terms of respect and growth opportunities?

49. Have you in the last year had a full-day off-site to talk about individual (and group) aspirations?

50. Have you called a customer ... TODAY?

(51. Have you “mapped your competitive position” since you finished this checklist? Now it’s okay to do.)

Have You ... Started?

Obviously I hope you'll use this list. Perhaps as follows:

- (1) Circulate to your team.
- (2) Agree on no more than a half-dozen items to act as a Starter Action List.

(3) Pick ONE item.

(4) Do it TODAY.

- (5) Repeat once a week.

XXV. 2013-14/New Year's Week

This week you get a twofer. An ending and a beginning. Beginnings and endings are all-important. Act accordingly.

As year closes, emphasize that we are a team moving forward. Use the word per se until you're blue in the face.

Bosses. This week collect folks' 2013 stories. With mouth mostly shut, ears open, encourage energetic commitment to personal growth in 2014.

Good or not so good results, most folks have done their bit to contribute. Show your appreciation this week.

Pope Francis has made an enormous impact on an enormous institution with his way of being. Apply to your wee corner of the world this week.

Bad year? It happens. Be a paragon of grace and thoughtfulness.

Good year or not so good year, end it on a high with an un-showy show of energy and enthusiasm and appreciation and joie de vivre.

Make 2014 the year of committed servant leadership.

2014: Thought for those NOT in formal leadership slots: Every day, on or off the job, offers up a plethora of leadership opportunities! Go for it!

May each and every one of those who are privileged to lead have a 2014 marked by accomplishment and growth.

Make 2014 the year of committed servant leadership.

Thought for 2014 for those not in formal leadership slots: Every day, on or off the job, offers up a plethora of leadership opportunities! Go for it.

XXVI. Criticism, (Severe) Limits Thereto

Remember: Criticism poorly given rarely leads to correction. It leads to evasion—avoiding the task in the future.

Joel Heffner: “Coaching is like walking on eggs; any dope can criticize.”

Try Ed Schein’s book Helping: How to Offer, Give, and Receive Help.

Helping is far more delicate than neurosurgery!

Vala Afshar: “Most people will do better work and put greater effort under a spirit of approval than under a spirit of criticism.”

Wendy Maynard: “Positivity goes a long way, as does asking people what they think went well.”

Wendy Maynard: “There’s just been too much emphasis in management about ‘constructive criticism’; it can easily be abused.”

Rich McDonald: “Why many bosses stink—they watch too many military movies and forget that in-your-face degrading remarks never work for anyone.”

Wendy Maynard: “Most people were criticized unfairly as kids. As managers, they simply repeat the bad patterns.”

XXVII. Excellence

Remember (per me): Excellence is not an “aspiration.” Excellence is the next five minutes. Or not.

John Miller: “You are only 5 minutes max away from Excellence.”

Excellence is not a “culture.” Excellence is your next email or IM or 30-second chance meeting in the hall.

If you are a big cheese, Excellence that translates into $$$ is about your interactions during the elevator ride to the top floor.

If ever there were a day for Excellence via MBWA, it’s tomorrow [12/31/13].

Remember, Excellence is the work that gets done on the real or metaphorical “lower floors.” Camp out there this week.

Vala Afshar: The Foundation of Excellence is:

Grace

Humility

Grit

Optimism

Excellence is NOT a “goal.”

Excellence IS a way of life.

Or not.

Excellence is NOT an institutional choice.

Excellence IS a personal choice.

Or not.

“aspiration.”

Excellence IS the next 5 minutes.

Or not.

*Excellence is not an “aspiration.”
Excellence is the next five minutes.
Or not.*

Q: “Mr. Watson [CEO/IBM], how long does it take to become excellent?”

A: “One minute. That is how long it takes you to decide to never again accept anything less than excellence from yourself.”

“Excellence ... can be obtained if you:

... care more than others think is wise;

... risk more than others think is safe;

... dream more than others think is practical;

... expect more than others think is possible.”

- Experience! (Life is theater! It’s always showtime! Make every contact a “Wow”! Standard: “Insanely Great”/Steve Jobs; “Radically Thrilling”/BMW.)
- Eliminate! (Keep it simple!! Furiously battle hyper-complexity and gobbledygook!!)
- Errorprone! (Ready! Fire! Aim! Try a lot of stuff, make a lot of boo-boos. CELEBRATE the boo-boos! Try more stuff, make more boo-boos! He who makes the most mistakes wins! Fail! Forward! Fast!)
- Evenhanded! (Straight as an arrow! Fair to a fault! Honest as Abe!)
- Expectations! (Michelangelo: “The greatest danger for most of us is not that our aim is too high and we miss it, but that it is too low and we hit it.”)
- Eudaimonia! (The essence of Aristotelian philosophy: True happiness is pursuit of the highest of human moral purpose. Be of service! Always!)
- EXCELLENCE! (The only standard! Never an exception! Start NOW! No excuses!)

In Search of Excellence in SIX Words:

Hard is soft.
Soft is hard.

The “hard” numbers and the plans are the true “soft stuff.” The “soft” relationships and commitment to Excellence and integrity-in-all-we-do are the true “hard stuff.”

Excellence!
Now!
More Than Ever!

Excellence is the best defense.
Excellence is the best offense.
Excellence is the answer in good times.
Excellence is the answer in tough times.
Excellence is about the big things.
Excellence is about the little things.
Excellence is a design “good enough to lick”/S. Jobs.
Excellence is a relationship.
Excellence is a philosophy.
Excellence is an aspiration.
Excellence is immoderate.
Excellence is a pragmatic standard.
Excellence is execution.
Excellence is selfish.
Excellence is selfless.
Excellence keeps you awake.
Excellence lets you sleep well.
Excellence is a moving target.
Excellence knows no bounds.

XXIX. Organizations Exist to Serve: Why Else Get Out of Bed in the Morning?

*Organizations exist to serve. Period.
Leaders live to serve. Period.*

Passionate servant leaders, determined to create a legacy of earthshaking transformation in their domain (a 600SF retail space, a 4-person training department, an urban school, a rural school, a city, a nation), create/must necessarily create organizations which are no less than “cathedrals” in which the full and awesome power of the Imagination and Spirit and native Entrepreneurial flair (“We are all entrepreneurs.”—Muhammad Yunus) of diverse individuals (100% creative Talent—from checkout to lab, from Apple to Wegmans to Jane’s one-person accountancy in Invercargill, NZ) is unleashed in passionate pursuit of jointly perceived soaring purpose (= win a Nobel peace prize like Yunus, or at least do something worthy of bragging about 25 years from now to your grandkids) and personal and client service Excellence.

Such Talent unbound pursue Quests—rapidly and relentlessly experimenting and failing and trying again—which surprise and surpass and redefine the expectations of the individual and the servant leader alike. The collective “products” of these Quests offer the best chance of achieving rapid organizational and individual adaptation to fast-transforming environments, and provide the nutrition for continuing (and sometimes dramatic) re-imaginings which re-draw the boundaries of industries and communities and human achievement and the very conception of what is possible.

In turn, such organizations, bent upon excellence and re-imaginings based on maximizing human creativity and achievement, will automatically create cadres of imaginative and inspiring and determined servant leaders who stick around to take the organization to another level, and then another—or, equally or more important, leave to spread the virus of Freedom-Creativity-Excellence-Transforming Purpose by pathfinding new streets, highways, and alleyways which vitalize and revitalize, through creative destruction, Entrepreneurial Capitalism, which is the best hope for maximizing collective human Freedom, Happiness, Prosperity, Wellbeing—and, one prays, some measure of Peace on Earth.

Corporate governance (Twitter I.D.): “Healthcare’s service standard shouldn’t be other HC providers. It should be Zappos.”

One of VA’s biggest breakthroughs apparently started with a nurse’s observation from the local Burger King. (Use of barcoding.)

Adam Jacoby: “Examples of excellence are everywhere. The art is in customization & execution. Don’t settle for others’ best.”

The setting need not be grand! We can also learn powerful tidbits—or more—from the corner store! (If our eyes are always open.) (My book The Little BIG Things opens with the sparkling restroom in a small restaurant in Gill, Massachusetts.)

Lots of small biz owners are refugees from big business—trying to right “worst practices” they were muzzled by.

Corporate governance: Yes, and I discovered my corner shop owner was a PhD in economics and an MBA. Talked for full hour on service!

Sandy Maxey: “As currently used, benchmarking is a tool of self-reinforcing smug complacency—not about innovation.”

XXXVI. W-A-A-Y Overemphasizing Big Stuff
(And other issues concerning small businesses and growth businesses)

Why is “the business literature” overwhelmingly about giant corporations or self-help for individuals? Where’s stuff on a 2-50 person company—where the large majority of us work?

It’s partially because “gurus” like me historically get off on interviewing the Jack Welches of the world.

Frankly, I think the “gurus” or academics disdain or ignore these companies.

There is no time that is bad for a start-up if you are passionate about something and can beg, borrow, or steal a few bucks.

My focus here is not on entrepreneurs and start-ups. I’m thinking more about an existing 2-50 person company that someone’s aiming to make supercool.

My real target is a 17-person company that someone wants to guide to excellence, stellar productivity, and a “best place to work.”

Comment: Isn't focus on "scalability" (growth & replication)?

If I never hear the term "scalable" my life will be immeasurably happier.

Comment: Isn't every company into growth? Using giants as benchmarks?

Response: What about a local auto dealership or community bank? Not aiming for $10B in assets or $250M in sales.

My favorite book on non-monsters: Small Giants: Companies That Choose to Be Great Instead of Big, Bo Burlingham.

My #2 fav on non-monsters: Retail Superstars: The Best 25 Independent Stores in America, George Whalin.

Comment re fighting perils of size: Richard Branson used to say automatically break it up when it gets to 50 employees. Jack Welch used to say he wanted every piece of GE to be run like an excellent small biz.

Robert Cook: "I worked in one of Jack Welch's businesses; always pushing team to understand their customers but run your own business or else."

In a way we tried to de facto focus on the "working size" bits in In Search of Excellence. Avoided CEOs. Aimed to extract lessons from the person running a $50M division.

New aim: I want my bit "Tingleworthy."

Wow-ify that little sucker 'til it's Tingleworthy! Okay?

Glen Taylor: *"Yes, like a great rock band's growth comes when you make ravenous fans of what you do. If it's not tingleworthy, who gives a sh*t."*

Beautiful, brother! Beautifully beautiful!

Woody Zuill: "I am fully in alignment on this. If Not Tingle Now, When?"

Adam Jacoby: "In my last biz we called it creating a 'World of Wow.'"

Love it!

*Wow-ify that little sucker
'til it's Tingleworthy!
(What else?)*

Jerry Garcia: “We don’t want to be the ‘best of the best.’ We want to be the only ones who do what we do.”

Per my 1999 PSF Model, a small business is also a 25-person logistics department in a $250M business unit. (PSF = Professional Service Firm.)

Small biz: Training Inc., a 14-person unit in a 50-person HR dept. in a $200M biz unit in a $3B corp.

Comment: Training unit is different from small business.

Excellence for that 14-person training dept. dittos the 14-person retailer in my book. Shooting for Tingleworthiness or bust.

Carlo Navato: “And that’s what matters right? Authentic, original, visceral, bang!”

Start-ups are not particularly a young person’s affair: In fact, in the U.S. most start-ups are older folks, many many 50+/50++.

Comment: Aversion to scalability cannot hold for tech/Web.

There is no “tech.” There are 23,000,000 different flavors thereof. Minimum.

I venture to say that if you are focused on “scalability” from the start, you are doomed.

To aspire to be Facebook is arrogance beyond measure. To use FB as a model is insane.

I admire boldness. But the fact that there are a handful of bazillion-$$ companies is of no use whatsoever to a start-up.

Protagonist (Twitter I.D.): “Scale this sucker and monetize it and sell it.” Me: Let’s do seriously/embarrassingly cool shit!

Small (entrepreneurial) biz: Training Inc., a 14-person unit* in a 50-person HR department in a $200M biz unit in a $3B corporation—aiming for Excellence & WOW!

PSF /Professional Service Firm (See my Professional Service Firm 50: Fifty Ways to Transform Your “Department” Into A Professional Service Firm Whose Trademarks Are Passion and Innovation.)

Comment: “FB focused their product to make it great by scaling slowly, college by college. That’s what a great biz does.”

Most of the Web successes I know come from a superb niche idea; if it begins to gain traction, then worry about growth/replication/“scaling.”

Personally, I’d rather have $5M in venture money than $25M; in the latter case I’d be perpetually pushed to do “good enough” work and grow (“scale”) as fast as I can. (Somewhat parallel: I negotiated a low advance for book #2 so I wouldn’t be forced to try to quickly copy #1 while it was “hot.”)

Protagonist: “It’s ‘good enough’; so scale it, monetize it, and sell it.”

Me: “Let’s do seriously cool shit. Now!”

B-I-G: Over-rated? !

“I am often asked by would-be entrepreneurs seeking escape from life within huge corporate structures, ‘How do I build a small firm for myself?’ The answer seems obvious: Buy a very large one and just wait.”—Paul Ormerod, Why Most Things Fail: Evolution, Extinction, and Economics

“Mr. Foster and his McKinsey colleagues collected detailed performance data stretching back 40 years for 1,000 [large] U.S. companies. They found that none of the long-term survivors managed to outperform the market. Worse, the longer companies had been in the database, the worse they did.”—Financial Times

“Data drawn from the real world attest to a fact that is beyond our control: Everything in existence tends to deteriorate.”—Norberto Odebrecht, Education through Work

“Not a single company that qualified as having made a sustained transformation ignited its leap with a big acquisition or merger. Moreover, comparison companies—those that failed to make a leap or, if they did, failed to sustain it—often tried to make themselves great with a big acquisition or merger. They failed to grasp the simple truth that while you can buy your way to growth, you cannot buy your way to greatness.”—Jim Collins/Time

Companies That Choose to Be Great Instead of Big by Bo Burlingham

“They cultivated exceptionally intimate relationships with customers and suppliers, based on personal contact, one-on-one interaction, and mutual commitment to delivering on promises.

“Each company had an extraordinarily intimate relationship with the local city, town, or county in which it did business—a relationship that went well beyond the usual concept of giving back.

“The companies had what struck me as unusually intimate workplaces.

“I noticed the passion that the leaders brought to what the company did. They loved the subject matter, whether it be music, safety lighting, food, special effects, constant torque hinges, beer, records storage, construction, dining, or fashion.”

XXXVII. Judgment: Questionable Quality Thereof

Docs over-rely on clinical evidence—a handful of distorted memories about old cases. There are a jillion research studies on that.

(I mis-spoke on “jillion” studies re faulty clinical judgment. Number is probably a few thousand.)

I’ve been studying faulty judgment for 41 years. And research waaaaaay predates me.

Turns out most professionals are shitty decision makers. They over-rely on “clinical” experience—i.e., very low “n”/sample size.

Require as basic text in med school: Daniel

Kahneman’s Thinking,

Fast & Slow.

“Clinical judgment” is in general laughable.

Clinicians (a) are dealing with a small sample of data; and (b) their judgment is overwhelmed by a tiny sample-within-the-small-sample which is the extreme events they actually recall.

My friends and I laugh hysterically after close study of Kahneman. ALL professionals tend to be pathetic/horrid/wretched decision makers.

The power of “clinical” judgment? Most/all fund managers suck over even the mid-term, let alone the long-term. Try a Vanguard PURE Index fund if you want results. (THIS IS NOT A RECOMMENDATION.)

Re clinical judgment: HR “experts” are being made to look like, um, non-geniuses re hiring, etc., by Big Data/algorithms.

Re judgment: The “funny thing” is how relatively simple the algorithm can be that tops “professional” human judgment.

The research, alas, snickers at common sense, too. Common sense is more or less a synonym for faulty judgment.

Mr. Gladwell gave us Blink. Research is clear: Intuition is laughably bad in most cases.

Kahneman’s data suggest “thinking out of the box” is the supreme enemy of sound decision making.

CDC uses Big Data VERY accurately to predict the path of a flu outbreak. Odd correlations are better predictors than local disease data.

The days of sampling are coming to an end. Big Data often deals with population data.

NYC software start-up looks forward to the day when “data studs” will make more or less 100% of medical “clinical” “judgments.” (I do not exaggerate—may or may not be true; but even the fact that it’s thinkable enough to attract big venture money is telling.)

Tom Asaker: “Your judgment is probably decent. Unfortunately, your desires overrule it most of the time.”

Tom, I think there’s truth to that—but my confidence wanes by the hour. It’s more fundamental than emotional roadblocks. We are always dealing with small samples.

“The first principle is that you must not fool yourself, and you are the easiest person to fool.”—Richard Feynman (courtesy Tim Fargo)

This tweetstream constitutes bitter medicine. And the Big Data, etc., etc., road has a million twists & turns ahead. There is only one sin: Keeping one’s head in the sand.

Hence: STUDY. STUDY.
STUDY.

*Ain't it a bitch to your "judgment"

sucks? * I'm joking

*For a definitive list of 166 cognitive biases, see ...

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/List_of_cognitive_biases.

I have spent a lot of time in the last 12 months in denial concerning this stuff. I'm still in denial—but a lot less so than a year ago. I have now reached the point of being genuinely ...

OPEN-MINDED.

New World Order: FOUR MINUTES after your [Stefan Stern's] tweet [about Julian Birkinshaw's book Becoming a Better Boss], I COMPLETED downloading it onto my iPad.

Stefan Stern: "HNY." [Happy New Year.]

Tim Fargo: "The consistent problem is, even with 'data': It often gets shaped to support our prior opinion or discarded if not in agreement. Humans!!!"

Usually we shoehorn new data [from info that is inconsistent with our extant beliefs] into our prior model; our beliefs are untainted by the new contradictory evidence.

Cindy Potts: "Maybe excessive comfort in your judgment is a sign you've stopped growing/learning."

TP: Uncomfortable discussion [for many]. Losing followers. Cool.

*“The first principle is that you must not fool yourself, and you are the easiest person to fool.” —Richard Feynman (courtesy Tim Fargo)

Repeat: I do not view this tweetstream as negative. We simply need to educate ourselves and strip off the rose-colored glasses—better judgments, or at least less-bad judgments, may well ensue. But:

Blinders NEVER pay!

XXXVIII. Culture Comes ... FIRST

WSJ/0910.13: “What matters most to a company over time? Strategy or culture?”

Dominic Barton,* MD, McKinsey & Co.: “Culture.”

Bill Walsh,* NFL Hall of Fame Coach: “Culture precedes positive results. It doesn’t get tacked on as an afterthought on the way to the victory stand.”

Lou Gerstner,* former CEO, IBM: “If I could have chosen not to tackle the IBM culture head-on, I probably wouldn’t have. My bias coming in was toward strategy, analysis, and measurement. In comparison, changing the attitude and behaviors of hundreds of thousands of people is very, very hard. Yet I came to see in my time at IBM that culture isn’t just one aspect of the game—IT IS THE GAME.”

*Note that all three of these CEOs are/were charter members of the Hard-ass School of Management. This was a realization that emerged for each one over time, but is stated here—UNEQUIVOCALLY.

Hard is soft!

*Soft is hard!

People. Customers. Values. Corporate “culture.” Some—most?—call these “variables” “soft.” Instead they say with a near sneer: “Show me the numbers and the plans!”

Surely there is room (and need!) for the numbers and a plan. But they are the real “soft stuff”—malleable and manipulable. (As we saw/continue to see time and again during the 2007+ economic crisis.)

The truly “hard stuff” cannot be faked or exaggerated: The relationships with our customers and our own people and our communities. The spirit and grit of the enterprise. Integrity. A willingness to laugh at good tries that go awry—the heart of innovation success. And so on.

“Hard” is soft. “Soft” is hard.

In Search of EXCELLENCE ... in just SIX words!

Culture With a ... 100X BANG

“I am ... hundreds of times ... better here [than in my prior hospital assignment] because of the support system. It’s like you are working in an organism; you are not a single cell when you are out there practicing.” —Dr. Nina Schwenk, Mayo Clinic*

*One of the two core values instilled by Dr. William Mayo (Mayo Clinic) in 1910 was, effectively, practicing team medicine. Designing the practice around the patient, or “patient-centered care,” as some call its rare manifestation today, was the other core value. At Mayo, upon occasion prominent M.D.s have been asked to leave because of their inability to fully grasp the team-practice concept.

Culture ... UNVARNISHED

There is a ton of high falutin' stuff written about "corporate culture"—hey, I've written some of it. But the unvarnished flavors appeal most to me. Former Burger King CEO Barry Gibbons is a pal. He orchestrated a magical turnaround at a troubled firm at a tough time. And the heart of the matter, which he largely achieved, is described—UNVARNISHED—here:

“I didn't have a 'mission statement' at Burger King. I had a dream. Very simple. It was something like,

'Burger King is 250,000 people, every one of whom gives a* shit. ' Every one. Accounting. Systems. Not just the drive-through. Everyone is 'in the brand.' That's what we're talking about, nothing less.”*

Culture ... Give-A-Shit-ism

Forget “culture”/“vision”/“stories”/“narratives.” Skip the pseudo-technical language. Don’t call the consultants or “coaches.” Inspired by ex-BK chief Barry Gibbons, how about ...

Plain-Vanilla-Insanely-Important-Self-Managed-Give-A-Shit-ism? Give-A-Shit ... about each other, about the work, about the community.

Give-A-Shit-ism Attribute #1: A desperate need (desperate, not urgent; need, not desire) to help others grow.

Mike Brown: “Commit to your people’s growth or don’t come at all.”

Respect is by far the most powerful motivator of them all.

Philip Hopewell on respect: “Lean forward and listen.”

TP: That “simple” tweet must be read carefully to have the impact it deserves.

More, subtle but not subtle, adapted from a tweet by Trevor Gay: It’s “Thank you” for the ordinary, not the extraordinary, that matters most. That’s the true sign of your awareness!

XXXIX. The THREE Rules*

(*With which I am in full agreement.)

From Michael Raynor and Muntaz Ahmed's ...

THE THREE RULES: How Exceptional Companies Think:

- 1. Better before cheaper.
- 2. Revenue before cost.
- 3. There are no other rules.

From a database of over 25,000 companies from hundreds of industries covering 45 years, they uncovered 344 companies that qualified as statistically “exceptional.”

XLIII. The Second Machine Age

by Erik Brynjolfsson and Andrew McAfee

“The greatest shortcoming of the human race is our inability to understand the exponential function.”—Albert A. Bartlett (from Erik Brynjolfsson and Andrew McAfee, The Second Machine Age, “Moore’s Law and the Second Half of the Chessboard”)

The issue, circa 2014, is not “big change,” it is ACCELERATING Big Change. Time to adapt is evaporating!

“[Some argue] that the true work of innovation is not coming up with something big and new, but instead recombining things that already exist. And the more closely we look, the more this recombinant view makes sense.”

TP: Creativity that matters is not predominantly of the “gee whiz” variety. Creativity is the ability to integrate stuff, a very different kettle of fish.

“Organizational Coinvention” [coinvention of organization and technology]: “While a one-for-one substitution of machines sometimes occurs, a broader reorganization in business culture may have been an even more important path for skill-based change. ... [In some industries], each dollar of computer capital was often the catalyst for more than ten dollars of complimentary investments in ‘organization capital.’”

TP: The new stuff is only part of the point. Complete re-invention of organizations and networks of organizations is the real payoff!

“The greatest shortcoming of the human race is our inability to understand the exponential function.”

—Albert A. Bartlett (from Erik Brynjolfsson and Andrew McAfee, The Second Machine Age, “Moore’s Law and the Second Half of the Chessboard”)

(1) Person interviewed by the authors re TurboTax: “No way. I don’t use an H&R Block tax preparer any more. I’ve switched to TurboTax software. It’s only $49 and much quicker and more accurate.” Brynjolfsson and McAfee: “The creators of TurboTax are better off—but tens of thousands of tax preparers now find their jobs and incomes threatened.”

(2) CEO interviewed by the authors says he installed new infotech equipment before the Great Recession, but did not cut payroll when profits were soaring. And then: “When the recession came, business as usual was obviously not sustainable, which made it easier to implement a round of painful streamlining and layoffs. As the recession ended and profits and demand returned, the jobs doing routine work were not restored.”

(3) “For most of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, employment usually rebounded after each recession, but since the 1990s employment didn’t recover briskly after recessions. It’s not coincidence that as the computerization of the economy advanced, post-recession hiring patterns changed.”

TP: These three quotes are the heart of the matter.

“Every digital app developer, no matter how humble its offices or how few its staff, almost automatically becomes a micro-multinational, reaching global audiences.”

TP: A wonderful story.

“The Gross National Product does not include the beauty of our poetry or the intelligence of our public debate. It measures neither our wit nor our courage, neither our wisdom nor our learning, neither our compassion nor our devotion. It measures everything, in short, except that which makes life worthwhile.”—RFK

TP: GDP is an important measure. PERIOD. But it ain’t the whole ball game—not by a long shot!

Transforming Employment and the Economy
by Erik Brynjolfsson and Andrew McAfee

“The root of our problem is not that we’re in a Great Recession or a Great Stagnation, but rather that we are in the early throes of a Great Restructuring. Our technologies are racing ahead, but our skills and organizations are lagging behind.”

“The median worker is losing the race against the machine.”—Erik Brynjolfsson and Andrew McAfee, Race Against the Machine

“... breakage of the historic link between value creation and job creation ...”/Great Recession: “... lack of hiring rather than increase in layoffs ...”

40 Years: Median inflation-adjusted wages, men 30-50 with jobs, 1969-2009: $33K, -27%—“The Slow Disappearance of the American Working Man,” Bloomberg Businessweek/08.11.13

The “U-shaped Curve” Phenomenon:

High-skilled: Waaaaay Up!!!

Low-skilled: Stable/Up.

Middle: Down/Down/Down.

TP: Yikes.

XLIV. So I Missed By 5-10 Years. SO WHAT? Thrive Through “WOW. NOW.” Or else. (Not Pretty.)

I SAID 2015.

It looks more like it'll be 2020, maybe 2025.

Self-congratulatory remarks are to be avoided like the plague. Nonetheless, I must acknowledge that I began the 22 May 2000 Time cover story I authored (“What Will We Do For Work?”) with this: “I believe that ninety percent of white-collar jobs in the U.S. will be either destroyed or altered beyond recognition in the next 10 to 15 years.” The three causes I enumerated were “destructive” (game-changing) competition, technology/artificial intelligence (algorithmic substitution), and globalization/outsourcing.

The prior year, 1999, I had published a three-book set, jointly called “The Work Matters.” The three:

The Project50: Fifty Ways to Transform Every “Task” into a Project That Matters!

The Brand You50: Fifty Ways to Transform Yourself from an “Employee” into a Brand That Shouts Distinction, Commitment, and Passion!

The Professional Service Firm50: Fifty Ways to Transform Your “Department” into a Professional Service Firm Whose Trademarks Are Passion and Innovation!

In 2014, this 3-pronged revolution has not progressed as much as I supposed. But there is little doubt that the acceleration of change will more or less bring it to its (frightening) apex in the next 5-10 years.

But why oh why oh why must it be “frightening”? Why not ...

Liberating?

Fun?

Exciting?

Wall-To-Wall WOW?

Though a word would be changed here and there if the pub date was 2014 instead of 1999, the logic would not have changed one dollop. There was a quote I used in 1999: “A bureaucrat is an expensive microchip.”

Indeed.

And the answer? Or, rather ... THE ... answer is ... in my (not so) humble opinion ... High Value Added Projects. Those projects would be manned (and womaned) by free-spirited, imaginative people, whom I label Brand Yous. And the configuration of these groups would mimic, in my (not so) humble opinion, something not so new; namely professional service firms.

To use my shorthand:

WOW Projects.

Brand You(s).

PSFs.

I will go a step further in this space and provide the three “50 Lists.” I’ll just use the item titles, which will at times be a bit too shorthand-ish. But I’m sure you’ll get the drift.

Here we go:

The Project 50: All Work Becomes “WOW Projects”

I. Create!

What’s with this so-called “inventing”/“finding” a WOW! Project? You get an assignment, right?

1. Reframe: Never ... Ever! ... Accept a project/assignment as given!

2. Translate your daily experiences into cool stuff to do.

2A. Become a Benchmarking Fanatic: Look at every-small-thing-that-happens-to-you as a Golden Learning Opportunity.

3. Improve your vocabulary! Learn to love “WOW!” Use “the word.” WOW!

4. There are no “small” projects: In every “little” form or procedure, in every “little” problem there usually lurks a B-I-G Project!

4A. Convert today’s annoying “chore” into a WOW! Project. The B-I-G Idea: There’s no such thing as a “GIVEN.”

5. Put on the brakes! Don’t betray WOW!

6. Love makes the world go ’round!

7. Will it—the project, our baby—be beautiful? Yes ... beautiful!

8. Design-Is-It. I.e.: One of the single most powerful forces in the whole bloody universe.

9. Is the project revolutionary? (Are you sure?)

10. Is the Web factored into the project? In a B-I-G way?

11. Impact. Henry James asked this, as his ultimate question, of an artist's work:
“Was it worth doing?”

11A. Made anybody(s) angry lately?

12. Raving Fans!

12A. Women-as-Raving Fans. Women take to products/services—and, thence, “project deliverables”—for (very) different reasons than men.

13. Pirates-on-the-high-seas. “We” are on a Mission/Crusade. We plan to upset the applecart (convention wisdom) Big Time ... and Make a Damn Difference.

14. If you can (hint: you can!), create a “place.” That is ... pirates need ships at sea and caves on land. (“Safe houses” in spy-speak.)

15. Put it in your resume. Now! Picture yourself crossing the finish line.

16. Think RAINBOW!

17. Think ... or rethink ... or reframe ... your concept ... Into a “business plan.”

18. Think/obsess ... D-E-A-D-L-I-N-E. Be ridiculously/absurdly/insanely demanding of yourself/your little band of renegades.

19. Find a Wise Friend. WOW Projects Ain't Easy! They Stretch You, Stress You, and Often Vex You. And the Organization.

20. Find—and then nurture—a few (very few) co-conspirators.

20A. Find at least one user/co-conspirator. NOW. Think user from the start.

21. Consider carrying around a little card that reads:

WOW!
BEAUTIFUL!
REVOLUTIONARY!
IMPACT!
RAVING FANS!

II. Sell!

Who ever heard of a “sales” chapter in a “project management” book?

“Damn few” is the answer. (None?) And therein lies the problem. WOW! Projects must be sold ... to team members, higher-ups, freaky first-users, and ultimately customers-at-large. Learning to s-e-l-l is a hefty part of the battle; it forces clarity, focus, drive, faith.

22. Be S-U-C-C-I-N-C-T. Describe your project (its benefits and its WOW!) in T-H-R-E-E minutes.

22A. Metaphor time! The “pitch”—and every aspect of the project—works best if there is a compelling theme/image/hook that makes the whole thing cohere, resonate, and vibrate with life.

23. Sales means selling ... Everyone!

24. Hey: WOW! Project Life = Sales. Right? So ... work consciously on BUZZ. Get visible and stay visible.

25. Do your “Community Work.” Start to Expand the Network! A.S.A.P.

26. Last is as good as first. If they support you ... they are your friends.

27. Preach to the choir! Never forget your friends!

28. Don’t try to convert your enemies. Don’t waste time on them.

29. Create an A-Team Advisory Board.

30. Become a Master Bootstrapper. You heard it here first: Too much initial money ... kills!

31. Think B-E-T-A! As in ... Beta Site(s). You need customer-partners ... as safe-haven testing grounds for rough prototypes.

III. Implement!

Implementation means a detailed plan. Right? Right! Clear assignments of responsibility? Right again! But ... again ... that’s little more than the least of it.

32. Chunk! Chunk! Chunk! We've gotta break "it"—our project, now on the move—down into tidbit/do-it-today/do-it-in-the-next-four-hours pieces.

33. Live ... Eat ... Sleep ... Breathe: Prototype! I.e.: Become an unabashed Prototyping Fanatic.

33A. Teach prototyping. Prototyping is a "corporate culture" issue. I.e.: Work to create a Culture of Prototyping.

34. Play! Find playmates!

35. Scrunch the Feedback Loops!

36. Blow it up! Play ... and Destruction ... are handmaidens.

37. Keep recruiting! Iron Law: WOW Projects call for WOW! People. Never stop recruiting!

37A. Wanted: Court Jester.

38. Make a B-I-G binder! This is the Project Bible. It's the Master Document ... the macro-map.

39. List mania. Ye shall make lists ... and the lists shall make ye omniscient. (No joke.)

40. Think (live/sleep/eat/breathe) Timeline/ Milestones.

40A. Wanted: Ms. Last Two Percent!

41. Master the 15-Minute Meeting. You can change (or at least organize) the world in 15 minutes!

42. C-E-L-E-B-R-A-T-E!

42A. Celebrate failures!

43. Station break! The keynote here is action. Exactly right! But: Don't allow the action fanaticism to steer you off course re WOW!/Beauty/Revolution/Impact!/Raving Fans.

44. A project has an Identity. It's alive. Project = Life ... Spirit ... Personality.

45. Cast the net a little/lot farther afield.

46. It's the U-S-E-R, stupid! Never lose sight of the user community.

47. Concoct a B.M.P./Buzz-Management Program. Marketing is Implementation.

IV. Exit!

A time to each and every thing!

48. SELL OUT! It's been "us" against "them" ... and one heck of a ride. But now the time has come to dance with the suits ... if we really want full impact.

48A. Recruit a Mr. Follow-up ... who is as passionate as you are! (And L-O-V-E-S Administration.)

49. Seed your freaks into the mainstream ... where they can become mutant viruses for your (quirky) Point of View!

50. Write up the project history. Throw a Grand Celebratory Bash!

The Brand You50 "Distinct" or ... "Extinct"

Or: Fifty ways to transform yourself from an "employee" into a brand that shouts distinction, commitment, and passion!

1. It's up to you ... and you alone. Coping rests on your shoulders. Forget "they." This is your life. Period.

1A. When was the last time you asked: What do I want to be?

2. You've gotta! Finally: It's the White Collar Revolution! You have no option:
The White Collar Revolution is about to swallow me/you/us!

3. Answer (my best) (my only????) to the "White Collar Revolution": Brand yourself.

3A. Holy Toledo! Brand You magnified. What if we each had personal "Market Cap"?

4. Start now: Use some subset of these four—very practical!—Brand You assessment tools:

One: Make a Personal Brand Equity Evaluation.
Two: Develop a one-eighth (or one-quarter) page Yellow Pages ad for Brand You/Me & Co.
Three: Create an eight-word Personal Positioning Statement.
Four: How about a bumper sticker that describes your essence?

4A. We need a snapshot!

5. Forget "job." Forget "tasks."

5A. Commit yourself wholeheartedly to ... the Project Life.

6. Package yourself. Axiom: You (Me!) are a package!

7. "INC." yourself.

8. Brand You/Me Inc. is about what you value.

9. Brand You/Me Inc. requires a rich portfolio of attributes and skills.

9A. The big hat rack! Another take: Brand You warriors must wear lots of hats.

10. Ready to play the great game of business?

11. Give the world a clear picture of who you are.

12. Think job title!

13. You are what you do.

14. Message to Brand You wannabe: Embrace real-world politics of implementation.

15. Turn crappy “little tasks” into gold. (VCJ: Volunteer for Crummy Jobs.)

15A. Work with what you’ve got! (Damn it!)(And make it special.) (Damn it!)

16. Master bootstrapping.

17. The Brand You nub: A sterling portfolio of WOW! Projects.

17A. You are the “WOW!-ness” of every project.

18. Focus. Clutter kills WOW.

19. You Are Your Clients I: Think Client.

20. You Are Your Clients II: Obsess on Clients.

21. Competence. You (Me!) have got to be noticeably good at S-O-M-E-T-H-I-N-G.

22. You Are Your Rolodex I. Manage the hell out of your community/network!
Brand You is personal. But it’s not a loner’s world.

22A. Loyalty. New loyalty. Not “logo loyalty.” But Rolodex loyalty. Network loyalty.
Community loyalty. Extended family loyalty.

23. You Are ... Your Rolodex II. You are as broad/wise as your collection of freaks!

24. Design matters! The Big Idea: You (as in Brand You) are a designer. Period.

25. Become a “line extension” master.

26. You are your “Big Ideas.”

27. To steer Me Inc. through the white water of change is to dare. Daily.

28. Submit to the performance.

(29. B-o-s-s-e-s: Brand You should be your cup of tea!)

30. Identity!

31. Remember: a brand is a “trust mark.”

32. Obsess on your calling cards! It all starts when/where it starts.

33. Build a website that wows. (Period.)

34. Join Toastmasters. You are your own P.R. “Agency.”

35. How about learned optimism? Spreaders of gloom are rarely—never!?!—successful Brand Yous.

36. Renew! Renew! Renew! Renewal = Job 1 For Brand You. Period.

37. Invest in yourself. A formal Renewal Investment Plan (R.I.P.) is a must!

38. Whet your appetite. Again. Again. And yet again. Learn from ... anyone. Anywhere. Any time. BECOME A SPONGE ... for Cool Stuff. (Work on exposing yourself to Cool Stuff.)

A 50LIST WITHIN A 50LIST: THE RENEWAL50

1. Go to the nearest magazine shop. Now. Spend 20 minutes. Pick up 20—twenty!—magazines. None should be ones you normally read. Spend the better part of a day perusing them. Tear stuff out. Make notes. Create files. Goal: Stretch! Repeat ... monthly ... or at least bimonthly.

2. Go to the Web. Now. Relax. Follow your bliss! Visit at least 15 sites you haven't visited before. Follow any chain that is even a little intriguing. Bookmark a few of the best. Repeat ... at least once a week.

3. Take off this Wednesday afternoon. Wander the closest mall ... for two hours. Note the stuff you like. (And hate.) Products, merchandising, whatever. Repeat ... bimonthly.

4. Buy a packet of 3 x 5-inch note cards. Carry them around with you. Always. Record cool stuff. Awful stuff. Daily. Review your card pack every Sunday. (Obsess on this!)

5. Going the same place for vacation next year? Why not someplace new? Why not one of those university-sponsored 12-day trips to explore some weird phenomenon?
6. Project stuck in a rut? Look through your Rolodex. Who's the oddest duck in there? Call her/him. Invite her/him to lunch. Pick her/his brain for a couple of hours about your project.
7. Create a new habit: Visit your Rolodex. Once a month. Pick a name of someone interesting you've lost touch with. Take her/him to lunch ... next week.
8. New habit: You're in a meeting. Someone you don't know makes an interesting contribution. Invite him/her to lunch ... in the next two weeks.
9. You run across somebody interesting. As a matter of course, ask her (him) what's the best thing she/he's read in the last 90 days. Order it from Amazon.com ... this afternoon.
10. Take tomorrow afternoon off. Rain or shine. Wander a corner of the city you've never explored before.
11. *Go to the local Rite Aid. Buy a $2 notebook. Title it Observations I. Start recording. Now. Anything and everything. (Now = Now.)*
12. Going out this Saturday night? Go some place new.
13. Having a dinner party next Sunday? Invite somebody—interesting—you've never invited before. (Odds are, he/she won't accept. So what? Go for it. It's just like selling encyclopedias. No ring doorbell = No sale.)
14. Go past a kiosk advertising local Community College Courses for this fall. (Or one of the Learning Annex catalogues.) Grab a copy. Look it over this evening. Pick a couple of interesting courses and topics you've always wanted to know more about. Call the professor (with a little detective work, you can find her). If you're intrigued, sign up and ... at least ... go to the orientation session.
15. Read a provocative article in a business journal. Triggers a thought? Email the author. So what if you never hear back? (The odds are actually pretty high that you will. Trust me.)
16. At church this Sunday, the pastor announces a new fund drive. Sure you're busy. (Who isn't?) Go to the organizing meeting after services. Sign up!
17. You're working with your 13-year-old on his science project. You find you're having fun. Go to school with him tomorrow ... and volunteer to talk to the class about the topic.
18. A crummy little assignment comes along. But it would give you a chance to work with a group of people you've never worked with before. Take the assignment.
19. You're really pissed off at what's going on in your kid's school. So run for the school board.
20. You aren't really interested in changing jobs. But there's a neat job fair in the next town this weekend. Go.
21. An old college pal of yours invites you to go on a long weekend by the lake. You never do things like that. Go.
22. A really cool job opening overseas comes up. It fits your skill set. You couldn't possibly consider it. You've got a nine-year-old and your husband is content with his job. At least call someone ... and find out more about it.

23. You're on the fast track. But a fascinating job opens up ... far away. It looks like a detour. But you could learn something really new. Really cool. Go talk to the guy/gal about it. (Now.)
24. The eighth grade teacher is looking for chaperones for the trip to the natural history museum. You're a law firm partner, for God's sake, making $350,000 a year. Volunteer.
25. You love taking pictures. You pick up a brochure advertising a four-day photography workshop in Maine next summer. Go to the workshop.
26. A friend of yours, a small-business owner, is going to Thailand on a sourcing trip. She invites you to join her. Go.
27. There's a great ball game on ESPN in an hour. Forget it. Go on that walk you love ... that you haven't taken for a year.
28. I'm not much on planning. But how about sitting down with your spouse/significant other and making a list of three or four things you've "been meaning to do" that are novel ... then coming up with a scheme for doing at least one of them in the next nine months?
29. You've a-l-w-a-y-s wanted to go to the Yucatan. So at least call a travel agent ... this week. (How about right now?)
30. You know "the action is at the front line." Spend a month (two days a week) on a self-styled training program that rotates you through all the front-line jobs in the hotel/distribution center/whatever.
31. Ask a first-line supervisor who the most motivated clerk in the store is. Take him/her to lunch ... in the next three weeks.
32. You spot a Cool Article in the division newsletter. Call the person involved. Take her/him to lunch. Tomorrow. Learn more. (Repeat.) (Regularly.)
33. You and your spouse go to a great play this Saturday. On Monday, call the director and ask him/her if you can come by and chat some time in the next two weeks. (If the chat goes well, ask her/him to come in and address your 18 colleagues in the Accounting Dept. at a Brown Bag Lunch Session later this month.)
34. Institute a monthly Brown Bag Lunch Session. Encourage all your colleagues to nominate interesting people to be invited. Criterion: "I wouldn't have expected us to invite ---."
35. Volunteer to take charge of recruiting for the next year/six months. Seek out input/applications from places the unit has never approached before.
36. Consider a ... four-month sabbatical.
37. Get up from your desk. Now. Take a two-hour walk on the beach. In the hills. Whatever. Repeat ... once every couple of weeks. (Weekly?)
38. Seriously consider approaching your boss about working a day a week at home.
39. Take the door off your office.
40. You've got a couple of pals who are readers. Start a Reading Group that gets together every third Thursday. Include stuff that's pretty far out. (Invite a noteworthy local author to talk to your group now and again.)

41. Join Toastmasters. (I know it's a repeat. It's important!)
42. Pen an article for the division newsletter.
43. In the quarterly alumni magazine, you read about a pal who's chosen to do something offbeat with her life. Call her. Tomorrow. (Or today.)
44. Buy that surprisingly colorful outfit you saw yesterday. Wear it to work. Tomorrow.
45. Develop a set of probing questions to use at meetings. "Will this really make a difference?" "Will anybody remember what we're doing here two years from now?" "Can we brag to our spouse/kids about this project?"
46. Assess every project you propose by the "WOW!"/"Is it Worth Doing?" criteria.
47. Call the Principal Client for your last project. Ask her to lunch. Within the next two weeks. Conduct a no-holds-barred debriefing on how you and your team did ... and might have done. Now.
48. Call the wisest person you know. (A fabulous professor you had 15 years ago?) Ask her/him to lunch. Ask her/him if he or she would be willing to sit with you for a couple of hours every quarter to talk about what you've done/where you're going. (Try it. It can't hurt.)
49. Become a Cub Scout/Brownie troop leader. Or direct your kid's play at school. The idea: Spend more time around children ... they're fascinating ... spontaneous ... and wise.
50. Build a great sandcastle!

38A. Love the plateau. Learning—the essence of Brand You—is not a smooth ride. (You get stuck at times.)

39. Me Inc. needs a great board of directors.
40. Brand You/Me Inc. needs a front line university to call your own.
41. Never neglect the Talent Scout Mode ... even if you are a junior individual contributor.
42. Make our/my/your "organization"—Me & Co., Brand You—special from the get-go!
43. Brand Yous lead! At all ages!
44. Become a "power freak."
45. What's your formal word-of-mouth marketing plan?
- 45A. P-l-e-a-s-e answer: Do I r-e-a-l-l-y have a "product"?

46. One woman/man global powerhouse is not an oxymoron in the new millennium.
47. Sell!
48. Are you a “closer”? Brand Yous have got to “ask for the business.”
49. Brand Yous are dis-loyal! (To a particular corporate logo.)
50. Welcome to Free Agent Nation.

PSF50:
The Professional Service Firm Is Exclusively
Devoted to High Value Added Work
(a Sparkling Collection of WOW Projects)

I. PSF = Inc. + Clients + Projects!

1. Think “Inc.”

It all starts in your head. Imagine: You are no longer “HR Director.” You are Managing Partner/Managing Director of HR Inc. ... a wholly owned subsidiary of the “ABC Division” of the “XYZ Corp.”

1A. Commit “Cool.”

2. Think (eat ... sleep ... breathe ... talk up) C-L-I-E-N-T. Period. Client service is the name of the game.

3. Select Clients very carefully. It’s axiomatic: You’re as good—or as bad—as the character of your Client List. In a very real sense, you are your Client List!

3A. Seek out Clients who are Leaders.

3B. F-I-R-E Clients ... upon occasion.

4. Turn e-v-e-r-y “task” into a ... Project. PSF = Client. PSF = Project.

4A. The Work Matters!

5. Become a Catalyst for Revolution. (Why not?) (What else?)

II. Portfolio Quality!

6. Visit every client. Initiate a “deep” and ongoing dialogue with ... every ... client.

7. Create an immodest Current Projects List. You—Dept. head turned Managing Partner of HR Inc. (Etc.)—are your Project List.

8. You are a Venture Capitalist. I.e.: What does your “project list”/“project portfolio” add up to? Is it exciting? (How exciting?) Is it bland?

9. Conduct a weekly—or a more frequent—formal Current Projects Review. The project-list-is-us. So ... now we’ve got to start managing the Hell out of it.

9A. Words ... matter. E.g.: “Engagement.”

III. Impact!

10. Transform every “Job” into a WOW! Project.

11. Never EVER Compromise Your Identity.

12. Pursue ... P-A-S-S-I-O-N.

13. MEASURE: Did we make an impact?

14. Tom’s Epithet No.1: “Thoroughly professional ... but not provocative.” The pressing question: Was it far enough out? Was it—our work—as “crazy” as these (clearly) crazy times demand?

15. L-E-A-D your Client!

16. Another-flavor-of-WOW: Politics. PSF mantra: We are not scornful of the grubby “politics of getting things done.” We embrace them as the sine qua non of effective implementation.

17. PSF success boils down to ... the fine art of balance.

18. Accounting (etc.) is a performing art.

19. Speaking of accounting ... remember the bottom line: “Business-ing.”

20. Got any quirky projects on the list? If you want some “great stuff” to happen ... well ... you have absolutely no alternative: Your portfolio has to include some Truly Freaky Stuff.

21. Think ... LEGACY. Question to ask yourself: “What—if anything—will my three years as Managing Partner of Purchasing Inc. be remembered for?”

22. Pitch in ... or bail out!

22A. Practice serial monogamy. Or: “One” is a beautiful word!

23. PSFs need Vision Statements. Period.

23A. We help people!

IV. Live With 'Em!

24. Make Clients an integral part of every project team.

24A. Cohabit with the Client!

24B. Turn the Client into an expert! Openly, purposefully share your knowledge and wisdom.

24C. Engage Clients in a measured “risk progression” process.

25. Insist ... that Clients submit a formal evaluation of “your people” (and “their people”) at the end of each project.

25A. Think external. Think independent.

26. Client-centric = PSF Imperative. Period. But don't lose your independent voice. Think Client. AND: Stay autonomous.

27. Bring in wild and wooly outsiders. E-x-p-a-n-d the box.

V. A Culture of Urgency!

28. Create a “sense of urgency”/“excitement”/“vibrancy”/“buzz.”

29. Hot Teams thrive in Hot Spaces!

30. Celebrate ... constantly. Celebrate any success.

30A. Projects-worth-doing are bumpy. There are bad days at the office. Dealing with the emotional roller coaster called PSF-on-a-Holy-Mission takes thoughtful effort!

30B. You need a clown!

31. Love thy “support staff.”

32. You need a rabid scheduler! Project(s) Life = Deadline Life. Each project—in the unit as a whole/the PSF—needs a “deadlines/scheduling/milestones freak.”

32A. We're in this for the money! WOW is the Point. But ... big “but” ... it must be Work Worth Paying For. So ... charge appropriately.

33. Pay attention to the “hard stuff” ... e.g.: methodology.

34. Embrace marketing.

VI. Knowledge-Is-Us!

35. Become a Research & Development Evangelist.

35A. Devote a sizable share of effort/revenues to Knowledge Development.

36. Turn your current portfolio of projects into a ... Research & Development playground/gold mine.

37. Think ... DESIGN. Are “beauty”/“grace”/“elegance” operative words ... relative to every project?

38. Evaluate the possible bases of PSF Competitive advantage. Nobody—and no PSF—is “great at everything.” The essence of PSF market strategy and positioning is “Know thy strengths.” (And weaknesses.)

VII. Talent!

39. T-H-I-N-K ... connoisseur of talent. Professional Service Firm = Talent. Period.

39A. We want to be a Magnet for Talent.

40. Cherish instability! Mix up teams!

40A. Mix redux: Encourage turnover!

41. Demand that every PSF member be known for ... something.

41A. Admiration beats affection.

42. Champion passion. Champion perfection.

43. Create stories/mythology around “project winners.”

44. T-R-A-I-N. Teach the “Professional Service Firm Basics” ... with a vengeance.

45. Provide “project management-leadership” opportunities ... A.S.A.P.

46. Cherish great listening skills.

47. Geeks—the antisocial, masterful diggers-of-obscure-facts—should be adored!

48. Challenge! Challenge! Challenge! Demand ... the impossible. From everyone. (Obviously: starting with yourself.)

VIII. It's Ours!

49. Think ... Dream ... Act: WOW! Beauty! Impact! Distinction!

50. We own this place! The mantra-to-end-all-mantras in PSF-land: “We are HR Inc. This is our joint. It is our life. We are in charge. Excellence is in our hands ... to choose ... or lose.”

XLV. 47 Questions for Newby CEOs

A reporter asked me to think about “a couple of questions a new CEO ought to ask her/himself.” I stopped—for now—at 47:

Can you imagine your tombstone having your net worth carved in it? Of course you can't. (I hope.) So what would you like on the tombstone?

How would you explain what you do to your 10-year-old daughter? (Aim for 25/50 words or less.)

How would you explain your most recent major decision to your 10-year-old daughter? (Aim for 25/50 words or less.)

Did you miss half your 13-year-old daughter's soccer games this year? (I'll guarantee that if you live to be 109, you'll never forgive yourself no matter how many zeros in your net worth.)

List your Top Five active projects: How many score 8 or higher on a 10-point “WOW Scale”?

Are your training courses so damn good they make you giggle?

Can every employee, when stopped by you in the hall, describe her or his personal development strategy for 2014? (Is it radical?)

Is your CTO/Chief Training Officer on a par (e.g., pay, perks, pecking order) with your CFO/CIO/CMO?

Have you read Forbes publisher Rich Karlgaard's The Soft Edge? (Of course you haven't. It's not out. But you damn well better read it when it arrives!)

List your Top Five active projects: *How many score 8 or higher on a 10-point
“WOW Scale”?* *

TODAY. Take ONE project. Figure out—with your team—how to move it up ONE notch on the WOW Scale. (I call this, God help me ... “WOW-ification.”)

Whenever you read this: Have you modeled Unadulterated Excellence in the last 30 minutes?

Do you have enough freaky customers in your portfolio, pushing you to the limit day in and day out?

If you got run over by a bus, could you guarantee that your successor is BETTER than you are?

Have you thanked 10 people for SOMETHING ... today?

At year's end do you call 25-50 people to thank them for their support during the prior 12 months? (Inspired by Hank Paulson)

Is EVERY meeting a Paragon of Excellence? (To a large extent, like it or not, meetings are what you do.)

Do you ever act like an asshole? (Guess what, dude, you can't get away with it—you are NOT Steve Jobs.)

Do you have an implicit bias for capital investments over people investments?

(Think VERY carefully about this.)

Are you a good listener? (Odds are VERY high that you are not—AND that you're getting worse. Nothing is more important. It is a subject that can be studied and mastered.)

Are you a PROFESIONAL ... listener?
Are you a PROFESIONAL ... at hiring?
Are you a PROFESIONAL ... at evaluating people?

How many-off-the-charts crazy new people have you had lunch with in the last 90 days? (Inspired by FedEx CEO Fred Smith.)

Do you read enough? (10:1 says the answer is “No.”) (Inspired by one of USA’s top 10 investment bankers who said not reading enough is the number ONE failing of CEOs.)

If all of your traditional marketing programs were shut down tomorrow, would your extant Social Media programs carry the load?

Do you think the whole “social media”/“social employee”/“social business” “thing” is overblown? (It may be, but are you sure? Good chance it’s “underblown.” How do you plan to test the overblown/underblown hypothesis?) (In any event, STUDY like a maniac.)

Do you think the whole “big data” “thing” is overblown? (It may be, but are you sure? Good chance it’s “underblown.” How do you plan to test the overblown/underblown hypothesis?) (In any event, STUDY like a maniac.)

Do you make eye contact 100% of the time?

Do you practice Intense MBWA (Managing By Wandering Around) EVERY day? (Courtesy, in effect, Starbucks’ Howard Schultz, who visits a minimum of 25 shops per week.)

To what degree can you say you are honestly (regularly, intensively) in touch with folks three levels “down” in the organization—where the real work gets done?

Are you over-reliant on email, or do you still use the phone regularly?

Do you reward imaginative failures that lead to significant learning? (Courtesy a successful Aussie exec who says his philosophy is, “Reward excellent failures, punish mediocre successes.”)

How many physical visits to key customers have you made this quarter?

Do you have a rigid/near-religious routine of calling a key contact at each of your top 10 (25?) customers once a month?

Are you sure that you are not so intimidating that you cause people not to share priority problems with you early on when they are fixable? (Hint, you think you are approachable—odds are you are alone in that assessment.)

Women buy the lion's share of retail AND commercial goods. Does your top team reflect that? (If it doesn't, you're an idiot.)

Is your top team a paragon of diversity? Or did they all go to Stanford? (I went to Stanford. It is, of course, the best university in the world. But lack of top-team diversity is a huge mistake. Inspired by Billy Cox: “You will become like the five people you associate with the most; this can be either a blessing or a curse.”)

Have you read and attentively studied and widely shared Daniel Kahneman's book Thinking, Fast and Slow? (It will shake your confidence in your and your colleagues' judgment/decision-making skills—that's a good thing.)

Do you think your intuition is good? (I don't—and I don't even know you.)

Is 50% of your time unscheduled? (Courtesy Intel superstar Dov Frohman's book Leadership the Hard Way. Frohman says over-scheduling and failure to “daydream” are CEOs' two top failings.)

Is your full cadre of 1st-line bosses staggeringly talented and well trained/mentored/compensated? (The population of 1st-line bosses is unmistakably the #1 determinant of productivity/employee retention.)

Do you have an implicit bias toward noisy, aggressive people? (You probably do. Read the book Quiet—and realize that shortchanging introverts is a strategic mistake.)

Do you acknowledge that failed cross-functional communication/cooperation/synergy is the #1 cause of delays of ... EVERYTHING? (It is.) Do you work VISIBLY on this EVERY day? (Inspired by Mayo Clinic—MC fires top docs who fail to buy into team medicine.)

Do you acknowledge that there are about 500 ways to de-motivate people, and about 5 ways to motivate them—and act accordingly?

Do you quickly get tired of people who constantly say “the sky is falling”? (Well, I do, too. But sometimes it is falling. I pray you are an optimist; I pray that you have a few pessimistic pals whom you do not dismiss out of hand.)

Do you acknowledge that acquisitions rarely live up to their billing—the billing that was so gloriously touted by you? And do you acknowledge that when acquisitions blow up it is usually courtesy a “culture clash” which you didn’t look at hard enough during the vetting process? (If you don’t acknowledge that, you are wrong. PERIOD.)

In presentations you review, is there as much/more text devoted to implementation as there is to problem/opportunity analysis?

Is your strategic plan > 2 pages? (If yes ... for shame.) (Courtesy Larry Bossidy.)

XLVI. The LAST Word* (*For Now)

*“Be the best.
It’s the only market that’s not crowded.”*

—George Whalin (from Retail Superstars: Inside the 25 Best Independent Stores in America) (Sure, it’s obvious—but that’s the point. Amidst the madness that leads us to go this way, then that way, then the other way, it’s important to remember that being bloody damn good at ... SOMETHING ... was and is and will be the immutable bedrock of everything else.) (FYI: Retail Superstars is a marvel—even if you are in HR or finance. It’s 25 stories/sagas/tales about the unbridled power of imagination—sagas of people who have turned the ordinary into the extraordinary with such vigor that it makes one—or me, anyway—giggle at times. FYI: In the same vein, read/ingest Bo Burlingham’s Small Giants: Companies That Choose to Be Great Instead of Big.)

(“We are crazy. We should do something when people say it is ‘crazy.’ If people say something is ‘good,’ it means someone else is already doing it.” —Hajime Mitarai, Canon)

(“There’s no use trying,” said Alice. ‘One cannot believe impossible things.’ ‘I daresay you haven’t had much practice,’ said the Queen. ‘When I was your age, I always did it for half an hour a day. Why, sometimes I’ve believed as many as six impossible things before breakfast.’” —Lewis Carroll)

XLVII. The LAST Word (Version TWO)

1/4,096*: “Business has to give people enriching, rewarding lives ... or it’s simply not worth doing.”

—Richard Branson

*A year ago I posted “everything I know” at a new site, excellencenow.com. It ended up being a 4,096-slide, 23-part PowerPoint presentation. Some ONE slide had to go ... FIRST. And capture the spirit of the whole shebang. I chose Mr. Branson’s quote above to fill the bill. After all, what could possibly be more important???????

XLVIII. The LAST Word (Version THREE)

1T/4,096*: “You miss 100% of the shots you never take.”

—Wayne Gretsky

This one tied for first among 4,096 with Mr. Branson. Bob Waterman and I put “Bias For Action” at the top of the list of eight winner’s traits in In Search of Excellence. Meant it then. More important than ever now. Plus: It’s a great life lesson for thee & me. I also like this kin from an anonymous Hollywood screenwriter: *“Ever notice that ‘What the hell’ is always the right decision?”

XLIX. The LAST Word (Version FOUR)

“Execution is Strategy.”

—Fred Malek*

*Superstar private-sector entrepreneur (my White House boss, 1974)

L. The LAST Word (Version FIVE)

Do or Die/Innovate or Die*: “Do one thing every day that scares you.”

—Eleanor Roosevelt

*The world of enterprise is living on the edge. So, too, you and I. Hence, we must thrust ourselves into the “discomfort zone” each and every day—to even have a chance of thriving. The problem is, and it’s a huge one: The seemingly simple advice here ain’t simple at all. The near at hand is onerous enough—there’s no time left to venture out into the unknown. But there must be time—you must make the time. And preferably, per Ms. Roosevelt, each and every day. (See also our discussion here about what I call the “Hang Out Axiom.”)

LI. The LAST Word (Version SIX)

‘GERONIMO!’”

—Bill McKenna
(professional motorcycle racer)

LII. The LAST Word (Version SEVEN)

“Nobody knows anything.”

—William Goldman, screenwriter extraordinaire

As I walk down the street today (1 FEB 2014) in the small town in New Zealand (Takaka) where my wife and I spend the North American winter, I can't help but wonder, “Well, will things here really be all that different a decade from now?” Y’know, I’m not all that sure they won’t be. And: I’m not all that sure they will be.

Cheers, Tom
