Preface: A Bias for Action, 1966-2014

Let me not weary you with a long tale of the work that led to In Search of Excellence. I will simply say that the research was done and the writing had been outlined. It included, as centerpiece, eight chapters that were the heart of the matter—the “Eight Basics of Excellence.” Well, of course, something had to come first. “People as asset #1”? “Getting close and then closer to the customer”? “Internal entrepreneurship”? Great candidates all! But we (my co-author Bob Waterman and I) chose—without any hesitation—another that we labeled “A Bias for Action.” In our travels, we had concluded that big businesses’s # 1 problem was, to use our shorthand, “Too much talk, too little do.” As the norm, companies were weighed down with bureaucracy to the sinking point. (Indeed, some did sink.) But the companies we most admired—3M was a classic example—were inclined to generate an idea, test it in a flash, correct it in a flash, again and again, and then again, until it was discarded or became the basis for something new. Something had to be #1. And that characteristic, that “shut up and do now” bias for action was it.

That was some time in 1980, two years before the book was published. And here it is 2014. Fully thirty-four years later. And I still have not changed my mind. A lot has changed to say the least, but now, more than ever, those who get an inkling and try it in a flash and fix it in a flash are still the pick of the litter. From Google or Facebook to GE and the stores on main street in your town.

As I look back, 1966 was actual the personal launch of this paramount idea for me. After college, I went into the U.S. Navy—they’d paid my way through school. And, skipping steps, became an officer in a Seabee battalion. (Seabees stand for C.B., construction battalions—combat engineering units that by and large support U.S. Marine Corps ground units. The motto of the “Bees,” from the start in 1942 was “Can do.” Or: Stop the talk, start the “do.” It was embedded in a history dating to World War II and the important battle for Guadalcanal. And 24 years later I was living the legend in Danang, Vietnam. My “CO”/Commanding Officer epitomized “Can do.” And, in retrospect, directly anticipated “A Bias For Action.” I heard “Shut up and get in the field and do it—barriers are 100% irrelevant” so many times that my brain ached.

And, to essentially repeat, 48 years later, my beliefs haven’t changed one bit—except to get stronger with the passage of time. Heavens knows, in 2014 “a bias for action” has become the “age for action”—as everything moves/accelerates faster and faster

“Quality is a probabilistic function of quantity.” (M. Gladwell/“Creation Myth”/re J.S. Bach)

“Ever notice that ‘What the hell’ is always the right decision?” (Anon. screenwriter)

“I think it is very important for you to do two things: act on your temporary conviction as if it was a real conviction; and when you realize that you are wrong, correct course very quickly.” (Andy Grove)

“Active mutators in placid times tend to die off. They are selected against. Reluctant mutators in quickly changing times are also selected against.” (Carl Sagan & Ann Druyan, Shadows of Forgotten Ancestors)

“If things seem under control, you’re just not going fast enough.” (Mario Andretti)

“The most successful people are those who are good at plan B.” (James Yorke, mathematician)

“I’m not comfortable unless I’m uncomfortable.” (Jay Chiat)

“If it works, it’s obsolete.” (Marshall McLuhan)

“The only way to whip an army is to go out and fight it.” (Ulysses S. Grant)

“The genius of Grant’s command style lay in its simplicity. Grant never burdened his division commanders with excessive detail. ... no elaborate staff conferences, no written orders prescribing deployment. ... Grant recognized the battlefield was in flux. By not specifying movements in detail, he left his subordinate commanders free to exploit whatever opportunities developed.”—Jean Edward Smith, GRANT

“Execution is the job of the business leader.” (Larry Bossidy)

H. Ross Perot/EDS founder, former GM board member “The first EDSer to see a snake kills it. At GM, the first thing you do is organize a committee on snakes. Then you bring in a consultant who knows a lot about snakes. Third thing you do is talk about it for a year.”

“We made mistakes, of course. Most of them were omissions we didn’t think of when we initially wrote the software. We fixed them by doing it over and over, again and again. We do the same today. While our competitors are still sucking their thumbs trying to make the design perfect, we’re already on prototype version #5. By the time our rivals are ready with wires and screws, we are on version #10. It gets back to planning versus acting:

We act from

“When assessing candidates, the first thing I looked for was energy and enthusiasm for ... execution.”

Does she talk about the thrill of getting things done, the obstacles overcome, the role her people played—or does she keep wandering back to strategy or philosophy?”

—Larry Bossidy, from Execution: The Discipline of Getting Things Done

A man approached J.P. Morgan, held up an envelope, and said, “Sir, in my hand I hold a guaranteed formula for success, which I will gladly sell you for $25,000.”

“Sir,” J.P. Morgan replied, “I do not know what is in the envelope, however if you show me, and I like it, I give you my word as a gentleman that I will pay you what you ask.”

The man agreed to the terms, and handed over the envelope.
J.P. Morgan opened it, and extracted a single sheet of paper.
He gave it one look, a mere glance, then handed the piece of paper back to the gent.
