“We are in a brawl with no rules.”
– Paul Allaire, former CEO, Xerox

MANIFESTO. The word suggests a pointed view. (Rodale’s Synonym Finder: Manifesto … Proclamation. Declaration. Pronunciamento. Broadcast. Airing. Broadsides.) And “Pointed View” is precisely the idea of this series of “booklets” – in what we call The BRAWL WITH NO RULES Series. Each booklet is an expanded chapter of my cornerstone day-long seminars. But I have chosen these topics for two particular reasons. First, I think they (1) are important and (2) present enormous opportunities and (3) are grossly neglected by most organizations. Second, I have a Radical Point of View about each one; you will find no half-way suggestions here!

Re-inventing Work

The Work Matters!

“We aren’t knocking Dilbert … who would dare? But … we do believe that … work can be cool.”

-- tom peters

Work … yours and mine … as we know it today … will be re-invented in the next ten years. It’s as simple as that. And as profound. Here’s why …

The tough old union militant remembers. Not 1870. (Of course.) But 1970. (Not exactly an eon ago.) Took 108 guys some 5 days to unload a ship full of timber. And now? Container daze: Eight guys … one day. (!!!)

No big deal. It happened on the farm. It happened in the distribution center and in the factory. And at the docks.

But … hey … it’s 2001 … and 90+ percent of us – even in so called “manufacturing” companies – work in white collar jobs. Fact: We haven’t touched – or really even bothered with – white collar productivity.

Never.

UNTIL NOW.
Ninety Percent in Jeopardy

Take ERP ... Enterprise Resource Planning systems ... from PeopleSoft and SAP and Oracle. (Etc.) And ... of course ... the Web and e-commerce.
And Groupware. Intranets. Extranets. And “expert systems.” And “globalization.” (Of the no-baloney sort.) And global de-regulation. And the rising tide of entrepreneurialism ... from Shanghai to ... amazingly ... Paris. Etc. Etc. Etc. Etc. ...

I recently chatted with the president of one of our – U.S. – biggest white collar unions. I said I thought that 90 percent – or so – of his members’ jobs were in jeopardy. They would either disappear ... or be transformed beyond identification. In the next ten or so years. It was not a scare tactic. It’s what I – fervently – believe.

ERP ... plus the Web ... plus etc. ... will change the white collar world in the next few years as much as containers, robots and forklifts changed the blue collar environs in the last century. I.e.: Unimaginably!

My Dad toiled 41 years for “BG&E” ... the Baltimore Gas and Electric Company. Same door ... West Lexington Street ... 9 a.m. ... Monday through Friday after Friday. That was the way the game was played.

No more.

It’s a b-r-a-n-d  n-e-w  b-a-l-l-g-a-m-e. And we think we have an inkling of what the rules will be. There is an IS-IT revolution. (Information Systems – Information Technology.) And an attendant White Collar revolution.

AND ...

“Cool” Accounting Departments?

Go to Borders ... or Barnes & Noble ... or Amazon.com ... and you’ll find dozens of books on creating the self-managing work team in the auto factory or pulp mill. Now: Look for a book on creating the Really Cool Accounting Department ... and you’ll look in vain. (Right?) Yet far more of us work in Acct. Depts. than in auto plants. (Right?)

Soooooooooooooo ... what if .....

What if ... White Collar World was coooooooool?

Well ... there is a place where white collar world – and white collar work – is cool! A place long ignored. The ... professional service firm. Architects. Engineers. Lawyers. Accountants. Consultants. Industrial designers.
These outfits have been long seen as parasites … living off the sweat of real men’s brows – UAW and USW and UMW members. Then we woke up: “THEY” WON. It’s a white collar world … where the economic value gravitates to the Microsofts … and the AOL Time Warners. The “soft service” people.

Our Model

So I and my colleagues want to offer a model. It goes like this:

There was/is a revolution. Call it the IS-IT-Web-ERP-etc. revolution. And it’s triggering the White Collar Revolution. And … as I said … 90+ percent of our jobs are – suddenly – in jeopardy. So … whadda we do …

And what do we see at these firms? Let us examine three dimensions: the organization … the individual … the work itself.

TO WIT …

I. PSF 1.0

We call the first part of our model PSF 1.0. That’s shorthand for Professional Service Firm Conversion Kit, Release 1.0. Idea: You are boss of a 23-person finance department in a division of a big company. Or, rather, you were boss of the finance department. Now, per our suggestion-model, you are Managing Partner, Finance Inc., a full-fledged professional service firm which is a wholly-owned subsidiary of your division.

Goal: Learn from the best professional service firms! Transform your unit! Today, even after re-engineering done well, the “department” doesn’t look much like McKinsey, IDEO, Andersen, or Chiat/Day. (And that’s an understatement!)

The aim, in short: Cool People working on Cool Projects with Cool Clients. The aim redux: A COOL FINANCE – Purchasing, IS, HR – DEPARTMENT. Why not?

The cool professional service firm is just that: cool talent, a portfolio of way cool projects, cool clients. Period. Its only asset – literally – is brains. Its only product is projects. Its only aim is truly memorable client service.
(Are all professional service firms exemplary? No. Don’t professional service firms need to learn new tricks too? Yes. Still, 99 percent of white collar units-departments could learn – a lot! – from the under-studied professional service firms in general.)

So step #1, then, is the organization: Transforming “departments” in which white collar folks work into … WAY COOL PROFESSIONAL SERVICE FIRMS … ADDING WAY COOL VALUE … BY DOING WAY COOL “STUFF.”

IA. Talent

“People are our most important asset.” Bet you’ve read that one before. Well, it’s not true for a “PSF.” In PSF land: People are The Only Asset. Period. People are The Brand.

Furthermore, “people” in PSFs aren’t “employees.” (Or “associates.”) PSF People are Talent. Period.

And that’s exactly the right conjuring. Xerox Palo Alto Research Center founder Bob Taylor pulled together a brilliant team of computer and software researchers. One early colleague described Taylor as a “connoisseur of talent.”

I’m in love! In love with that term: Connoisseur of Talent! That’s what all professional services chiefs must be! It’s a long story. But I preview it below. Take a look …

A Connoisseur of Talent …

• Spends lots of time on hiring. (Time rules! Period!)
• Becomes a student of hiring. (Start with Pierre Mornell’s Hiring Smart.)
• Talks “talent”! (“Leaders of Great Groups love talent and know where to find it. They revel in the talent of others.” – Warren Bennis and Patricia Ward Biederman)
• Thinks like a sports franchise General Manager. (Talent = Everything.)
• Practices D.I.Y. / Limits the HR role in hiring. (“San Francisco 49ers Delegate Hiring to HR Department.” Not!)
• Writes / reviews all help wanted ads herself.
• Uses plain / sparkling English in want ads and asks for what she wants (if you want “cool,” ask for cool; if you want “sunny disposition,” ask for sunny …).
• Develops a Strategic Recruitment Plan.
• Recruits from offbeat places.
• Becomes de facto CDO / Chief Diversity Officer. (Diversity = Creativity.)
• Thinks arts. (Hire a musician in accounting!)
• Gets best folks involved in recruiting / hiring / talent development / mentoring up to their eyeballs.
• Networks far and wide and weird in pursuit of Cool Talent.
• Turns the pay scale upside down (“talent” > managers).
• Launches / nurtures “great place to work” PR campaign, including institutional advertising (assuming it’s a great place to work).
• Works on R.I.P.s / Renewal Investment Plans with all employees; uses R.I.P. success in evaluations.
• Uses project selection and staffing as a key development tool.
• Evaluates all managers on success at talent development per se.
• Rewrites values / vision document to reflect “talent obsession.”
• Micromanages all promotion decisions (excellence in talent recruitment and development is a/the principle criterion for promotion).
• Makes recruitment and talent development a staple of every operating review.
Attributes of Those Who “Made” the 10th Grade History Textbook

PSF / Talent redux: History books are flawed. No doubt of it. Nonetheless, they represent a societal consensus of what-who’s important to humanity’s march through time. So … take your daughter’s tenth grade history text. Randomly pull out 50 names. Political leaders (Thomas Jefferson, Franklin Roosevelt). Social change agents (Dr. King, Gloria Steinem). Generals (Alexander the Great, Douglas MacArthur). Scientists (Watson and Crick). Artists (Van Gogh, Picasso). Weed out the villains (Hitler, Stalin et al.).

Now write down several attributes that characterize those who remain. I’ll bet your list is not far from mine. To wit:

• Committed.
• Determined to Make a Difference.
• Focused.
• Passionate!
• Risk seekers. (Irrational about their life’s “project.”)
• Ahead of their time. / Paradigm Busters!
• Impatient. (But, paradoxically, stay the course.)
• Action obsessed. (Mantra: Ready. Fire! Aim.)
• Made l-o-t-s of people mad!
• Creative. / Quirky. / Peculiar.
• Rebels. / In The Establishment’s face. / Flouted the Chain of Command.
• Irreverent. / Disrespectful.
• Masters of Improv. / Thrive on Chaos. (E-x-p-l-o-i-t chaos!)
• Forgiveness (asking for after the fact) beats Permission (asking for before the fact).
• Bone Honest!
• Flawed.
• “Tuned into” followers’ needs and aspirations.
• Damned good at what they do!

The point: I first tested this list during a talk with elementary school principals. To be honest, I was on the warpath. I think our schools do a perfect job … of suppressing creativity. (Not such a great idea in Microsoft-AOL Time Warner world.) So I asked the gathering of 5,000 principals, tongue in cheek, if my list (above) characterized their schools. “And if not, why not? If it's good enough to make the history books as society’s exemplars,” I said, “then why isn’t it good enough for good ole P.S. 29?”

But now I’ll aim my laser pointer at you: If these traits are those we cherish, then why don’t they characterize your HR Dept., Finance Dept.? PSFs are all about fabulous “talent” vigorously pursuing “WOW Projects.” If so, we PSFers want a culture marked by something akin to the 10th Grade History Book list.

Right?
II. Brand You

The second part of the model we call Brand You. It is the worker herself. Michael Goldhaber, writing in Wired, said, "If there is nothing very special about your work, no matter how hard you apply yourself you won’t get noticed, and that increasingly means you won’t get paid much either. In times past you could be obscure yet secure – now that’s much harder."

Again: The white collar job as now configured is doomed. Soon. (“Downsizing” in the nineties will look like small change.) So what’s the trick? There’s only one: DISTINCTION. Or as we call it … turning yourself into a brand … Brand You.

A brand is “nothing more” than a sign of distinction. Right? Nike. Starbucks. McKinsey. Martha Stewart. The point (again): That’s not the way we’ve thought about white collar workers – ourselves – over the past century. The “bureaucrat” on the finance staff is de facto faceless … plugging away … passing papers. And hardly Martha Stewart!

But now – in our view – she is born again … transformed from bureaucrat to the new star. She works in a way cool professional service firm (PSF 1.0) … and works on way cool projects that she’ll be able to brag about … years from now.

Icon woman(man). Her-him: the New American Professional. CEO of Me Inc. (even if Me Inc. is currently on someone’s payroll). And, of course, Brand You.

Step #1 in the model was the organization … a department turned into PSF 1.0. Step #2 is the individual … reborn as Brand You.

Icon Woman(Man)

Icons are important. Just ask Nike or Apple. Who is “our” prototypical professional-star-of-early-century-21?

- She (he) is totally turned on by her/his work.
- The work is … a WOW Project.
- “It” matters.
- “It” is … cool.
- “It” is … beautiful. It … literally … takes your breath away.
- She … and her work … are “in your face.” That is, the establishment cringes … at least a little bit.
- She is an adventurer … adventurous … a bit of a Pirate.
- She is her own woman … CEO of Her Own Life … even if that life is on someone’s payroll … at this transient moment. She is Brand You incarnate.
• She’s … at least a little … funky.

• Her tastes are (notoriously) eclectic … her curiosity insatiable.

• She laughs a lot. (Especially at herself and life.)

• She thinks screw-ups are as normal as breathing.

• She is driven … and totally committed to her craft.

• She hangs out with some seriously rad dudes.

• She’ll pass up a “prestigious” job in favor of an offbeat project where she can learn something totally new-different. (I.e.: She sleeps, eats, and breathes r-e-n-e-w-a-l.)

• She is not God. She is not bionic woman. She is determined to make a damn difference!

Icon Woman Meets the Web

Oh yeah … Icon Woman is also Web Woman ! I.e.: She …

• submits her résumé for a new job on the Web.

• is recruited on the Web.

• negotiates via email.

• is hired on the Web.

• is trained on the Web.

• creates and conducts projects on the Web.

• manages project and Client follow-up on the Web.

• manages her career and reputation building (Brand You development!) on the Web.
III. The WOW Project!

The third part of the model is … the work itself!
Funny thing … the work itself always seems missing in most discussions of “management.”
(Maybe it’s because we’ve expended so little energy studying white collar work.)

The third part of the model, then, we call the WOW Project. It’s obvious … in retrospect.
The common denominator-bottom line for both the professional service firm/PSF 1.0 and the individual/Brand You … is the project. And for the cool individual in the department turned cool professional service firm there is only one answer: the cool project.

THE PROJECT IS IT. I HAVE SPENT MY LIFE IN PROFESSIONAL SERVICE FIRMS. I AM MY PROJECTS. I AM AS COOL – OR UNCOOL – AS MY PROJECTS. PERIOD. MY PROJECTS ARE MY LIFE. MY PROJECTS ARE MY LEGACY. PERIOD.

A seminar participant in Sydney, Phil Daniels, said: “Reward excellent failures. Punish mediocre successes.” Amen! The question I ask at every seminar almost always brings a gasp – or at least a heartfelt sigh: “SO … HOW MANY OF YOUR FOLKS BACK AT HOME ARE AT WORK – RIGHT NOW – ON ‘MEDIocre SUCCesSES’? AT WORK ON PROJECTS THAT WON’T BE RECALLED, LET ALONE RECALLED WITH FONDNESS AND GLEE, A YEAR FROM NOW?” Following a riff on this topic, the chairman of a huge financial services firm pulled me aside and said, “You really got to me. Our future is our information systems projects. They start with fanfare and then, indeed, almost all of them wind down to your ‘mediocre successes.’ ” Need I add: This is exactly the wrong time for mediocre successes!

We don’t study professional service firms. (Mistake.) And we don’t study WOW Projects. (Worse mistake.) There is, of course, a project management literature. But it’s awful. Or, at least, misleading. It focuses almost exclusively on the details of planning and tracking progress … and totally ignores the important stuff: Is it cool? Is it WOW? Is it Beautiful? Will it Make a Difference? My #1 epithet, as I say to my seminar attendees: “On time … on budget … who cares?” I.E.: DOES IT MATTER? WILL YOU BE BRAGGING ABOUT IT TWO – OR TEN – YEARS FROM NOW?

(My problem: I’ve looked in the index of a dozen project management books. I’ve never found any of the following words: passion, creation, imagination, spirit, talent, sales, marketing, community building, beauty, cool, WOW. For shame!)

So, then: Step #1 … the organization … the professional service firm/PSF 1.0. Step #2 … the individual … the pursuit of distinction/Brand You. And: Step #3 … the work itself … the memorable project/WOW Projects.
I was in New York for a few days last January. On a Thursday night I went to Carnegie Hall … and saw the Orchestra of St. Luke’s, under Sir Charles Mackerras’ able direction, perform “A Haydn Miscellany.” On Friday night I saw the Metropolitan Opera, with Placido Domingo in town and Philip Levine conducting, do a stunning “Simon Boccanegra.” On Saturday morning, at Rizzoli’s, I picked up a copy of a book I’d never heard of … Sir Peter Hall’s marvelous Cities in Civilization. Somewhere along the way it occurred to me that each of these “items” … performance or tome … was a WOW Project … and a l-o-n-g way from … a-day-in-the-office, Dilbert-style. So what’s the difference? And why isn’t a day-at-work-in-the-Purchasing Dept. more like Placido’s evening-at-the-Met?

Action Now: The Movement!

The time has come to act!

How?

Our answer: start a movement.

Title: The Work Matters!

(Or: The Anti-Dilbert Movement.)

We are sick and tired of whining about lousy bosses. (Or companies.) It is – as we see it – our life. To live … or lose. To form … or allow to be formed.

Dilbert is hilarious. (I.e., on the money!) And there’s the rub. Dilbert stands not only for cynicism (an emotion I appreciate) but the de facto acceptance of power-less-ness. And that is where I draw the line!

It is my life! To live …

fully. Or not. And I damn well intend to live it fully. And I don’t think I’m alone. So my colleagues and I are audaciously starting movement. And we invite you to join us. Cost of membership: the time it takes to type www.tompeters.com onto your computer.

So … welcome aboard!

(P.S.: You may have noted the oversized ! in the paragraphs above. No accident. That is our symbol … the exclamation mark. We figure it’s about as far from the spirit – spirit-less-ness – of Dilbert-land as one can get.)
WE ARE IN A BRAWL WITH NO RULES. We are RE-INVENTING THE WORLD ... from scratch! WHAT A THRILL! (And a thrill of the sort no one’s had for centuries.) We are in a BRAWL WITH NO RULES. We get to make it up as we go along. I am so psyched to be around for “all this.” Is it confusing? OF COURSE. Is it maddening? ABSOLUTELY. But how sweet that is!

THE WORK MATTERS! White Collar Work – 90+% of all work – will be totally reinvented in the next 10 or so years. GET WITH THE PROGRAM ... OR GET RUNOVER. Strategies: (1) Turn “Departments” into full-fledged, for-profit “PSFs” – Professional Service Firms. These “PSFs” become, in turn, the primary engines of company value added through the accumulation of intellectual capital. (2) Turn all “the work” into no-bull WOW! PROJECTS. Projects you’ll be bragging about 10 years from now! (3) Encourage every “employee” to pursue a spicy Brand You strategy – creating a Unique & Valuable Identity that’s worth a fortune to the employee & the company. (This booklet is the basis for our three book “Reinventing Work” series: The Professional ServiceFirm50 ... The Project50 ... The Brand You50.)

IN SEARCH OF EXCELLENCE: A THREE-GENERATION REPORT CARD. In Search of Excellence marks its 20th anniversary in 2002. I aim to “beat the press” in terms of commentary. My chosen vehicle: a three-generation look. That is, I look at 1982 (the book’s pub date) ... and 20 years back (mgt. practice, circa 1962) ... and 20 years forward (mgt. 2002). It was fun to write – and I hope of some small use.

THE DEATH KNELL FOR “ORDINARY”: PURSuing DIFFERENCE. “We” have gotten (lots) better at everything. But so has “everybody .else.” “Excellent” products &services are quickly becoming “ordinary” and thence “commoditized.” This MANIFESTO summarizes 9 powerful strategies for combatting Creeping & Ultimately Fatal Commoditization. (Several of these strategies are the subject of separate MANIFESTOS below.)

WOMEN ROAR: THE NEW ECONOMY’S HIDDEN IMPERATIVE. The evidence is clear! (1) WOMEN ARE BETTER LEADERS THAN MEN (under the conditions of the New Economy). (2) WOMEN ARE THE WORLD’S BIGGEST MARKETOPPORTUNITY (BY FAR) ... and are wildly underserved. The stakes amount to TRILLIONS of dollars. (“The” answer, incidentally, is not “target marketing”; it is the much deeper Target Innovation.) Our story: WOMEN ROAR. WOMEN RULE. Believe it! (And ... Damn Few “Get It” ... even in 2001. WHADDANOPPORTUNITY!)
DESIGN MINDFULNESS. “It” works (understatement) for SONY. And APPLE. And GILLETTE. And BMW. And WALT DISNEY. And BODY SHOP. And BLOOMBERG. “It” = An Abiding Passion for DESIGN. Design turns out to be the Principal Reason we LOVE or HATE something ... “product” or “service.” Hence, design is the Hidden Engine powering the Brand Promise. So ... WHY DO SO FEW PAY (OBSESSIVE) ATTENTION TO IT? Again, the potential payoff is humongous.

GETTING WEIRD & STAYING WEIRD: CREATING & MAINTAINING THE HIGH STANDARD DEVIATION ENTERPRISE. Standard Deviation is a statistical measure of Weirdness. Companies that will thrive in Weird Times will systematically adopt Weird Practices. That is: Hang With Weird Customers & Suppliers. Recruit & Promote Weird Talent. Appoint Weird Boards. Etc. Etc. Innovation is “easy”: Force yourself/organization into Constant & Intimate Contact with The Weird Ones! (It is that EASY!)

THE HEART OF BRANDING. BRANDING IS EASY. (And, of course, impossible.) Forget clever marketing programs. And compelling logos. And Big Bucks Advertising. They’re all important, but the icing on the cake. The cake itself is an unswerving & crystal-clear answer to some “simple” questions: WHO ARE WE? HOW ARE WE (no bull) UNIQUE? WHY DOES IT MATTER? WHO CARES? IS IT COMPELLING ENOUGH TO VAULT 1000s OF EMPLOYEES OUT OF BED IN THE MORNING? Branding That Matters is difficult (KNOW THYSELF!) and simple (KNOW THYSELF!).

TALENT! There’s an All-out War for Talent. WINNING? Easy! Like Branding: Easy... and impossible. WINNING THE ALL-OUT WAR FOR TALENT DEMANDS ...FIRST AND FOREMOST ... AN ABIDING OBSESSION WITH TALENT! NFL Franchise-variety. Ballet Company-style. (TALENT-IS-ALL!) Provide Awesome OPPORTUNITIES. PAY Incredibly Well. Pursue DIVERSITY. Seek out THE STRANGE ONES. Honor YOUTH. Etc. Talent Am Us ... or We Ain’t Serious. PERIOD. (P.S.: Talent= The Brand ... over the long haul. OBVIOUS. Right?)

BOSS-FREE IMPLEMENTATION OF STM/STUFF THAT MATTERS! Forget the “power-less-ness” CRAP! (Try that Sob Story somewhere else! Gandhi ... and King ... and de Gaulle ... were NO SHIT POWERLESS ... and Changed the World!) THE Success Secret: Recruiting often “powerless” but always passionate allies ... who will play with you

WEB WORLD: THE 100% SOLUTION ... NOW! Key term: 100%. Others know more than I about The Web. But I have developed an Unshakeable & Radical Point of View: THE WHOLE NINE YARDS. OR NOTHING. Taking lessons from Schwab, GE, Oracle, Cisco ... I assiduously believe that you must convert ... ALL ACTIVITIES TO THE WEB(internal & external affairs) ... or risk losing the business. Message: THE WEB AIN’T A HALF-WAY SORTA THING! (P.S.: Potential = UNLIMITED. For the BOLD.) (DREAM BIG. DREAM BOLD. Or, skulk off ... stage left!)

PSF UNBOUND: THE (TOTAL) VICTORY OF THE PROFESSIONAL SERVICE FIRM. I/we have written extensively about the “Professional Service Firm Model.” I/we have seen it as a way to save one’s soul (or at least one’s job) in the face of the Coming White Collar Tsunami. Fine. But ... there’s a Bigger Picture. Hewlett-Packard offered $18 Billion for PricewaterhouseCoopers consultants. Making a “great box” was not enough. My contention is that the “internal” “professional services” will – quickly – become The Engine of Value Creation. In damn near any firm. To be sure, the Internal PSFs will have to join together to create value; but, still, it is their world. Period.

EDUCATION AND THIRD MILLENNIUM WORK: WE’VE GOT IT DANGEROUSLY WRONG. Education for the Third Millennium ... undoes everything we’ve done in education for the last 100 or so years. Our “system” works. Or, rather, worked. It turns out docile – sit in your seat, Tommy – “products” (humans) perfectly fit to spend 40 years in a Ford Model T plant. And perfectly unfit to be part of the new Brain & Productivity-based Economy!
